A LONG LOOK AT THE MASTER

Louis Basanta and Frank Mack. All but Mr. Mack will be among the 40 opponents facing the master tonight at 8 in Central Junior High School in the simultaneous match. (Times Photo.)

CHESS MASTER ARRIVES

It's 'Sammy' Vs. 40 Tonight

By BILL RAYNER

You had to look carefully to find Samuel Reshevsky, U.S. grandmaster and perhaps the best chess player in the world, when he stepped off the Vancouver plane at Patricia Bay Airport this morning.

Enveloped in a voluminous overcoat donned to combat Victoria's "unseasonable" weather, the diminutive master looked more like a commuting book-keeper than the man who defeated world chess champion Mikhail Botvinnik.

"Sammy," as he is called by the chess fraternity, is in Victoria for a simultaneous exhibition match tonight against 40 players. Co-sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Chess Club in the interests of chess, the match will be held at Central Junior High School auditorium beginning at 8.

Reshevsky was more worried about the calibre of Victoria's players than he was about the weather as he rode into the city with Dr. Simon Marinker, president of the Victoria Chess Club.

FANS ON HAND

Marinker had met Reshevsky at the airport along with Times publisher Stuart Keate and a covey of chess fans.

Between snatches of tunes he hummed or whistled, Sammy complained good naturedly about the "very rough time" he had had in his 39-board exhibition in Vancouver Monday night.

"I was surprised at the very strong players they have over there," he said, and smiling, "I hope you people are easy on me tonight." He drew four matches there and lost one.

The Vancouver exhibition was the first of four Canadian appearances Reshevsky will make. From Victoria he will fly to Calgary, then to Winnipeg. He is in his fourth week of a seven-week exhibition tour around North America, a trip he makes once a year.

FIRST SNOW

This, his first trip to Victoria, coincided nicely with the weather, the first snow he had seen since leaving his home near New York.

But apart from a friendly hint that he might have to haul out his rubbers, Reshevsky thought Victoria was "very nice."

He talked about the 72-board exhibition he put on in Los Angeles, which, literally, made Sammy run. It took him six hours to finish, and he only lost two games.

Playing 40 boards isn't quite so bad, but the strain is enough that he makes only one exhibition trip a year. The rest of the time is spent in studying, practicing and playing at his home near New York.

Practicing is the master's advice for young players. While noting that more and more younger players are meeting him in exhibitions, Reshevsky said all they need is practice, more practice, and experience to become strong players.

And perhaps strong enough "to cut him to pieces," as he good humoredly put it, heading for his hotel and a bit of relaxation before taking to the battlefield tonight.

SOUTH AFRICA HOUSE APPROVES RACIAL LAW

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Premier Johannes Strijdom's Nationalist party voted down opposition objections in a stormy Parliamentary session today and formally approved introduction of new measures to enforce the policy of racial segregation in South Africa.

The Opposition amendment, moved by United Party leader Jacobus Strauss, was defeated 170 to 65. The two Houses sitting in joint session then heard first reading of the new laws. They will reduce the voting rights of people of mixed blood—rights they hold under the constitution—and block the Supreme Court from rejecting the legislation as unconstitutional.

Mulligan's Departure 'No Secret,' Says Orr

Ex-Chief's Plan to Move to U.S. Widely Known Long Before He Went

VANCOUVER (CP)—There was "no secret" about former Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's plan to leave Canada, Magistrate Oscar Orr said today.

He said Mr. Mulligan's plans were known to "dozens of people" as early as Nov. 14, 1955.

The former chief, expected to be the star witness at the Tupper inquiry into charges of graft and corruption in the Vancouver police department, left the investigation high and dry when his migration to the United States was announced Jan. 21 this year. The inquiry, started last June, ended Jan. 27.

Counsel for the commission were accused of failing in their duty by not ensuring he would be available as a witness. CAUSED "SOME CONCERN"

"Many people knew he had applied for a visa, because it was causing some concern," said Magistrate Orr, former police commissioner who returned Sunday from a three-month trip to India.

Orr resigned from the police commission prior to his trip in

MLA Expelled By Quebec Liberals

MONTREAL (CP)—Raoul Grotte, member of Quebec's legislative council for Salaberry district, has been expelled from the Liberal party, the provincial Liberal Federation announced today.

The federation said the decision was made at a meeting of the executive in Trois-Rivières last weekend because Mr. Grotte "voted for dictatorial laws which openly contradict the basic principles of the provincial Liberal party and which violate the democratic character of our political institutions."

DUKE DUCKED

Missive Thrown In Queen's Car

IBADAN, Nigeria (UP)—A Nigerian man ran un-molested by police to the side of Queen Elizabeth's royal limousine and pitched a petition into the Duke of Edinburgh's lap today.

"It might have been a bomb," a perspiring British officer of the Nigerian police said later. "We'll have to tighten things up after this."

Thousands of nurses and construction workers were cheering the royal couple as they drove away from the Ibadan College hospital. Suddenly, a small Nigerian broke from the crowd and rushed to the side of the maroon Rolls-Royce. He flung a brown envelope through an open window.

The duke instinctively moved away from the man's raised arm, and the envelope dropped into his lap. The royal car moved on without stopping.

The petition-pitcher turned out to be a disgruntled former employee at the hospital, 39-year-old Michael Tayo. "I was wrongfully dismissed from the hospital last year," Tayo said. "I was head electrician and was told my work was unsatisfactory. I have written three petitions to the Queen but they have not been answered."

Eisenhower Gets O.K. From Doctors

Good for Years as President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's physicians told him today he "should be able to carry on an active life" in the presidency "for another five or 10 years."

This was reported at a press conference by Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant on the Eisenhower heart attack case, after White and five other physicians concluded a new examination of the president.

All the doctors concurred in the statement that Eisenhower should be able to carry on in the White House for another five to 10 years.

But White—who served as one of the spokesmen—would not say specifically he recommended that Eisenhower seek re-election.

"The choice is his, not ours," White said.

In the nature of things, the doctors' findings will be a factor in the president's decision—possibly to be announced in about two weeks—whether to seek re-election.

Scotland Yard Fires Corrupt Inspector

Vice Squad Officer Aided Prostitute, Withheld Panderer's Record From Court

LONDON (Reuters)—A long inquiry into bribery and corruption among London police closed Monday with the dismissal of Inspector Charles Jacobs, 47, of the vice squad.

Jacobs was the eighth man named last year by Joseph Grech, 32-year-old Maltese jailed for three years for housebreaking, in allegations against British police.

A detective superintendent then took charge of new evidence, combed London's shady Soho quarters, and questioned prostitutes, known mobsters and men serving jail terms.

As a result of inquiries three men, including a solicitor and a detective-sergeant in the metropolitan police were jailed for conspiring to pervert justice at Grech's trial. Six men named Jacobs at the detective-sergeant's trial.

Today the former vice-squad leader heard Scotland Yard's police commissioner reject his appeal against the decision of a disciplinary board 12 days ago.

The board found: 1. He had been guilty of assisting a convicted prostitute to obtain premises for the purpose of prostitution.

2. He had failed to disclose in court the previous convictions of a man found guilty of living on immoral earnings.

3. He had failed to account for property he took from a man arrested for living on immoral earnings.

Jacobs has the right of appeal to the home secretary against his dismissal.

A-G Intervenes In Divorce Case

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.—A divorce petition was adjourned here Monday for further investigation of the allegations, after the attorney-general's department intervened.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes turned down a request by Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, representing the petitioner's lawyer, Ian Sutherland, to have the divorce petition dismissed.

The judge's decision followed a request by F. Craig Munroe, representing the attorney-general, for further inquiry.

The petition had been filed by Stephen J. Fedoruk of Lulu Island, B.C., against his wife, Vivian Lorraine, and Charles Curran, named as co-respondent, both of Prince Rupert, B.C.

Mr. Sturdy told the court E. D. Edwards, Vancouver, a detective operator who was investigating the case, signed a statement in his office last month which he quoted as saying:

"They (the respondent and co-respondent) admitted to me that they had been living as husband and wife in Prince Rupert and didn't know of anyone who could serve them there without causing a scandal."

"I saw them earlier in the day at the Castle Hotel and they said they would get a room that night."

"They said they had to leave town the next morning and could not wait to be served. I sent the petition to them by mail."

Mr. Sturdy said the petitioner's lawyer, Mr. Sutherland, "had not participated in the perjury."

Mr. Justice McInnes said that "if Mr. Sturdy's statement is correct this is a very serious matter in the administration of justice." He adjourned the hearing to a later date at Vancouver.

GM Strike Ends After 148 Days; 17,250 Get 25c 'Package' Boost

TORONTO (BUP)—The 148-day General Motors of Canada strike ended at five minutes to midnight Monday with 17,250 GM workers in Ontario getting a 25-cent-an-hour package increase.

The marathon negotiations that dragged on for about 10 months gave the United Auto Workers Union the largest economic package in its history in Canada.

Louis G. Seaton, top negotiator for GM, said production would start immediately on 1956 models at the strike-paralyzed plants in Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor, Ont. However, the union membership has yet to go through the formality of ratifying the new two-and-a-half-year agreement.

The UAW called the strike Sept. 19 to enforce demands for an overall 28-cent-an-hour wage increase and fringe benefits

ALMIGHTY GOD help us to remember that love always wears working clothes, that it is by our fruits we are known. outstanding issue became the medical plan.

The company gained its point on that issue, and the strike was settled on the terms the company would pay only half the cost of the medical plan.

LONGEST, COSTLIEST

The walkout was the longest, in terms of man hours lost, in Canadian history.

About 1,604,500 man-days were lost, nearly 50 per cent more than the previous record set in a Nova Scotia coal mines strike in 1947.

The strike was also the costliest in Canadian history. The workers alone lost a total of $26,613,753 in wages, an average of about $1,543. GM lost many times that total in non-sales of automobiles, diesels and fridges.

The workers' families were kept alive by about $4,000,000 pumped into the strike by UAW International headquarters in Detroit. Some of the families suffered severe hardships, and many GM workers had started drifting into other jobs as the strike dragged into 1956. But at no time was there violence on the picket lines.

William A. Wecker, president of GM of Canada, hailed the new contract as "a return to the constructive labor-management relations which existed for many years prior to the strike."

"Also, it will afford employees and the company an opportunity to plan confidently for the future on a long-term basis. Now that the strike is ended, we look forward to resumption of production at the earliest possible date," he said.

FAR BEHIND RIVALS

The company has slipped far behind its rivals, Chrysler and Ford. GM is months behind in production of 1956 models, and the plants will now have to re-tool for the new models with the prospect of another re-tooling for 1957 models within eight months.

The haggard negotiators called newsmen into their smoke-filled hotel room where they settled the strike just before midnight. Under blazing television and newsreel camera arc lamps, they answered machine-gun-like questions fired by the newsmen, filling in the details of the new agreement.

George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said the union believed it had "done the job the membership gave us to do in this strike: that of bringing General Motors wages and working conditions to the level of its Canadian competitors, and beyond."

Burt said the union did not get everything it asked for originally, "but now that the agreement has been worked out, we earnestly hope that our future relations with GM will stem from this contract and not from any antagonism held over from the past," he said.

ANNUAL WAGE GUARANTEED

The new contract will last until Aug. 1, 1958. It provides for annual increases of six cents an hour; the guaranteed annual wage; an improved pension plan; eight instead of six paid statutory holidays a year; increased annual vacations; an improved health and surgical program with the company paying half the cost; increased overtime payments; and extra wage increases for about $500 of the employees.

The union estimated the agreement would net 25 cents an hour for most of the workers, and more for some.

Production workers at Oshawa, where there are more than 10,000 GM employees, would get a flat rate of $1.79 an hour with about 1,800 skilled workers getting an extra 40 cents an hour.

Burt said he was "disappointed" in not getting the company to pay the full cost of the medical plan. He said the UAW would "try again for the full-cost health plan here and in the United States."

Extensive Fire Damage At Everett Newspaper

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—A fast-spreading two-hour fire of undetermined origin caused extensive damage Monday night at the plant of The Everett Daily Herald.

Publisher Robert Best said the newspaper will attempt to resume publication on a modified scale, probably late today, using Seattle Times presses. The editorial staff set up an emergency office a block down the street.

Fire Chief Frank Schroeder, one of three firemen injured in fighting the blaze, said one theory was that the blaze started when the grease pit under the $150,000 rotary press caught fire from a furnace backfire.

The flames left the basement press room in charred ruins. The extent of damage to the press could not be determined immediately. Water still stood in the basement Tuesday.

Mrs. Arsens' cure: Eliminate sodium, feed the cancer patient more potassium.

Her nostrum for the disease currently engaging the world's top scientists in a full-time hunt for cause and cure, brought a shout of derision from Dr. Larry Giovando (Ind., Nanaimo-The Islands), only medical practitioner in the House.

Dr. Eric Boak, president, B.C. Medical Association, later gave the profession's official reply to Mrs. Arsens. "We haven't found yet the cause or cure of cancer," Dr. Boak said.

Russ Mid-East Charge Rejected by Big Three

LONDON (Reuters)—The foreign office said today that Britain, the United States and France have agreed there "is no question of sending forces to Middle East countries without their consent."

It made the statement in rejecting what it called "the entirely false picture" of the Western attitude to Middle East problems made in a Russian statement on Monday.

The Russian statement said that sending of Western troops to the Middle East would be a "crude violation" of the United Nations charter, and indicated that it would fight such a move in the UN.

It was referring to plans for dealing with a possible Arab-Israeli flare-up made by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden in Washington. Russia said the Western program "cannot but create threats to peace and security."

Gardiner Apologizes For Hansard Deletion

(From Times News Services)

A 17-word mention by Agriculture Minister Gardiner about use of "margarine" by institutions in Quebec will be restored to the pages of Hansard, official record of the Commons, following a two-hour debate over the deletion.

Mr. Gardiner apologized Monday for his action in having the words he said Friday struck out. And Speaker Rene Beaudoin also apologized for authorizing the change.

Leaders of opposition parties said the blame rests with Mr. Gardiner for alteration of the debate record without Commons approval.

Mr. Gardiner said he does not believe the institutions involved have been breaking the Quebec ban against margarine or other butter substitutes made from vegetable oils.

He said he made the deletion so that the institutions would not be wrongly condemned.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew accused Mr. Gardiner of "very improper procedure."

Tinkering With Record Says Hansell

Rev. E. G. Hansell, acting Social Credit leader, said no blame should attach either to Mr. Beaudoin or W. W. Buskard, the assistant editor of Hansard whom Mr. Gardiner first approached Friday and who referred him to the Speaker.

"It is not a matter of changing figures in Hansard," he said. "It is a matter of the minister's statement becoming a political issue in our neighboring province."

"Somebody said, 'you have to do something about this'. The minister did do something about it... he tinkered with the official record."

In explaining the "margarine" reference in his figures for Quebec, Mr. Gardiner said margarine may be made from animal fats and fish oils, and these are not illegal in Quebec.

Rest of the day was spent

City Liberal Opposes Proposal

Francis T. Fairley (L-Victoria) said he opposes the proposal because premiums paid for British Columbia's provincial hospital care plan could not be calculated. The plan was financed by two per cent sales tax.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver-Kingsway) said if there had to be a choice, children should get added assistance before the pensioners.

Dr. Owen C. Trainor (PC-Winnipeg South) sponsored another resolution. It urged that in computing medical deductions for income tax purposes, taxpayers be given the option of counting either medical expenses as now determined, or the premiums for private hospital and medical plans, or the provincial tax levied for provincial health insurance plans.

His resolution was not voted on—debate on it was adjourned by Finance Minister Harris.

But a vote of 89 to 61 defeated an amendment with the same aim. The clarifying amendment offered by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) said deductible medical expenses should include either health-care bills paid under a contributory insurance plan, or premiums and taxes for such plans.

Soviet Gaining ---Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev said today "there are only two roads, peaceful co-existence or war," and declared the Communist bloc now is invincible.

The Soviet Communist party secretary-general pictured the Western position as weakening while the Soviet Union and its associates grow stronger. But the warning was accompanied by a statement that war is not inevitable.

Khrushchev spoke before the 20th congress of the Soviet Communist party in the Kremlin, the first such gathering of the post-Stalin era.

He laid down a five-point foreign policy in which improvement of relations with the United States, Britain and France was one key point.

Maintenance of the "defence potential of the Soviet Union" was another. Khrushchev said Russia must not lag behind the Western powers in armaments.

NO LONGER CONFINED

"The principal feature of our epoch is the emergence of socialism (communism) from the confines of one country and its transformation into a world system," Khrushchev said.

"Capitalism has proved impotent to hinder this world historic process. The simultaneous existence of two opposed world economic systems, of capitalism and socialism, developing according to different laws in the opposite direction has become an irrefutable fact."

He said violent revolution is not necessary now to bring about a Socialist state.

The five principles of Soviet foreign policy outlined by Khrushchev were:

1. Respect for co-existence.
2. Strengthen relations with the people's democracies, Soviet satellites.
3. Strengthened friendly relations with India, Burma, Afghanistan and countries not belonging to aggressive military blocs.
4. Work for better relations with the United States of America, Great Britain and France in all fields, especially economic, technical and cultural.
5. Remain vigilant while there are still people who wish to threaten peaceful co-existence and maintain the defence potential of the Soviet Union."

ROYAL CITY BOARD OPPOSES TUNNEL PLAN

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP)—The New Westminster Board of Trade today officially added its weight in the controversy regarding the selection of Deas Island as the site for a Fraser River tunnel.

In a prepared statement, the board said "bridge crossing at Annacis (Island) will cost much less than a tunnel at Deas Island." The statement added that "80 per cent of all Pattullo Bridge traffic arises in the area south and east of the Pattullo Bridge."

AUTO COURT OWNERS MEET

Staggered Closures For Holidays Asked

Possibility of approaching B.C. industries with a proposal to stagger vacation shut-down periods will be discussed by the B.C. Auto Courts and Resorts Associations.

This was decided at the year's first monthly inter-area directors' meeting of the group here Monday after members had expressed views that the suggestion would benefit both the tourist industry and other industries concerned.

Victoria was chosen for the year's annual convention to be held next November or December with an expected registration of about 400.

Auto court ratings were discussed at a meeting with officials of the trade and industries department. It was suggested that in future, auto courts be given unit instead of group ratings.

Under the plan, it would be possible to have one section of an auto court given one rating while another section received a higher or lower rating. Hereafter an auto court has been given a single rating for all its units.

TUNNEL DEFENDED

Addressing the group in the Pacific Club, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi outlined his department's program for the year and vigorously defended his decision to build a four-lane tunnel under the Fraser River at Deas Island.

When linked up with the four-lane highway to the U.S. border, he said, it would mean an entrance to or exit from Vancouver entirely on the north side of the river and would facilitate evacuation in an emergency.

The group of engineers which recommended the crossing of the Fraser at Annacis Island, Mr. Gagliardi said, had been hired by Annacis Island Inter-

How to Find Immigrants

UP TO NOW CANADA HAS generally assumed that it could attract all the immigrants it could absorb. The latest figures from Ottawa show that assumption. Clearly the problem from now on will be to find enough suitable immigrants to meet the needs of an expanding economy.

Last year 109,946 immigrants entered this country as against 154,227 in 1954. Three years earlier, in 1951, the total stood at 194,391.

No new barriers have been erected against immigrants. They are just as free to come here now as they were in earlier years. But fewer are coming.

The reason is obvious. In the European countries and in the United States, where we would like to obtain immigrants, times are highly prosperous. Everybody, or nearly everybody can be sure of a good job at home. Only the most venturesome or discontented spirits will wish to start a new life in a strange country.

For example, 30,150 immigrants came here from Britain last year—this through the British Isles are crowded and Canada favors British immigrants above all others. Britain is booming, even though its boom is dangerously dependent on inflationary factors. There is virtually no unemployment but, instead, what most economists would consider overemployment. Under these conditions we need not expect many Britons to come here where they are welcome.

But is Mr. Pickersgill doing all he can do to overcome these difficulties? Is he sufficiently advertising the attractions of this country among the British people?

In a time of prosperity throughout Europe we cannot expect the opportunities of Canadian life to sell themselves. They must be sold. What is Mr. Pickersgill doing about that? No doubt he will be asked to answer such questions in Parliament shortly.

Parliament as a whole and the people generally will not be satisfied to see our total immigration continually slipping. What are the prospects for this year? Shall we even equal last year's diminished total?

Until recently we had no reason for serious dissatisfaction. Since the war about 1,200,000 immigrants have entered Canada. In a nation of our size this is a very large figure. Something like one in twelve Canadians is foreign-born.

The important and satisfactory thing is that these newcomers have been quietly absorbed into our national life. If any government spokesman had told us ten years ago that a million and a quarter new people could come here without a violent disturbance of our economy he would have been considered a dangerous optimist. Yet this has happened—thanks first to our boom and, second, to a sensible management of immigration policy, above all, the selection of immigrants who could best adjust themselves to our ways.

On this record the Government has no reason to apologize and every reason to be proud of its immigration record since the war. The only question today is whether this record can be maintained.

Greater Than the Pyramids

EGYPT'S GREAT ASWAN DAM project moved a step nearer reality last week with announcement that the initial financing has been agreed on. The World Bank will provide a loan of $200 million to get the work under way. Britain and the United States plan to lend additional funds to complete the undertaking which ultimately will cost more than $700 million.

These understandings appear to have removed the threat that Soviet Russia would take part in the financing and thus achieve a position of influence in Egypt's affairs for many years to come. The Egyptian Government itself had been none too eager for such a development, but it had used the Russians as a bargaining counter in negotiations with the West.

The Aswan project promises to revolutionize the Egyptian economy. The annual income of the country will be increased by an estimated $1 billion. Tax revenues of the Government will rise by some $63 million as a result of the vast new hydro-power and irrigation facilities to be provided.

Located 500 miles up the Nile from Cairo, the dam will be 17 times as big as the great Cheops pyramid. It will be, as Egypt's Premier Nasser has said, a monument for the living rather than a memorial to the dead. Length of the dam will be more than three miles and the height 364 feet—the world's largest. The lake to be formed will cover nearly 1,200 square miles, stretching upstream 265 miles into the Sudan.

Obviously, this will be one of the major engineering feats of the world. Its effects on Egyptian industry and agriculture will be incalculable but there can be no doubt that a new era will dawn for the Nile country. There will be effects, too, throughout the Middle East and in the Arab bloc. Egypt's increase in power will not be confined to the hydro-electric field.

Protection for the Asking

HIGH HOPES FOR THE SALK anti-polio vaccine have been borne out by results of last year's campaign to immunize children of pre-primary and primary school age. According to federal Health Minister Paul Martin the vaccine has proved entirely safe and 85 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio.

On the basis of this record, federal plans now call for a third shot of the vaccine for the nearly 600,000 children who received the initial two shots last year, and the first two shots for an additional two million children.

In British Columbia, this expanded program means that all children up to and including Grade 9 will be offered vaccination. It will not, of course, be compulsory, but as B.C.'s Health Minister Eric Martin says: "The safety of the vaccine is assured. Its success has been proven, and now the decision rests with each parent. I sincerely hope all will take advantage of this cost-free protection offered to their children."

The results, by all previous medical experience, have been spectacular. In this province, among more than 45,000 children vaccinated last year, there were no cases of paralytic polio. But among some 12,000 who were not protected there were 10 cases. On a federal basis, five cases of paralytic polio occurred among children who had been vaccinated; there were 51 cases among unvaccinated children.

In the face of such statistics there should be unanimous parental support for the program. Almost overnight, polio is on the way to being eliminated as a serious scourge among children. "Canada is particularly fortunate in the record of safety that has been established, and in the wide-spread, cost-free system of immunization that has been set up as the result of alert federal action.

More Independence for Parks

MR. HUGH SHANTZ, SOCIAL Credit member for North Okanagan, has revived the suggestion that a new department be established to care for parks and recreation.

The member would go a little further and create a "minister of game, recreation, parks and tourists." Perhaps that is a desirable development. Such a sweeping change, however, may not be necessary at this time. Certainly, though, the agency entrusted with parks and recreation administration requires a degree of independence it does not now possess.

At present parks and recreation are handled by a section under the jurisdiction of the B.C. Forest Service which, in turn is under the minister of lands, forests and mines. While the B.C. Forest Service enjoys the confidence of the public, its inevitable concern over commercial forestry must at times lead it to policies which are opposed by those interested in parks and recreation.

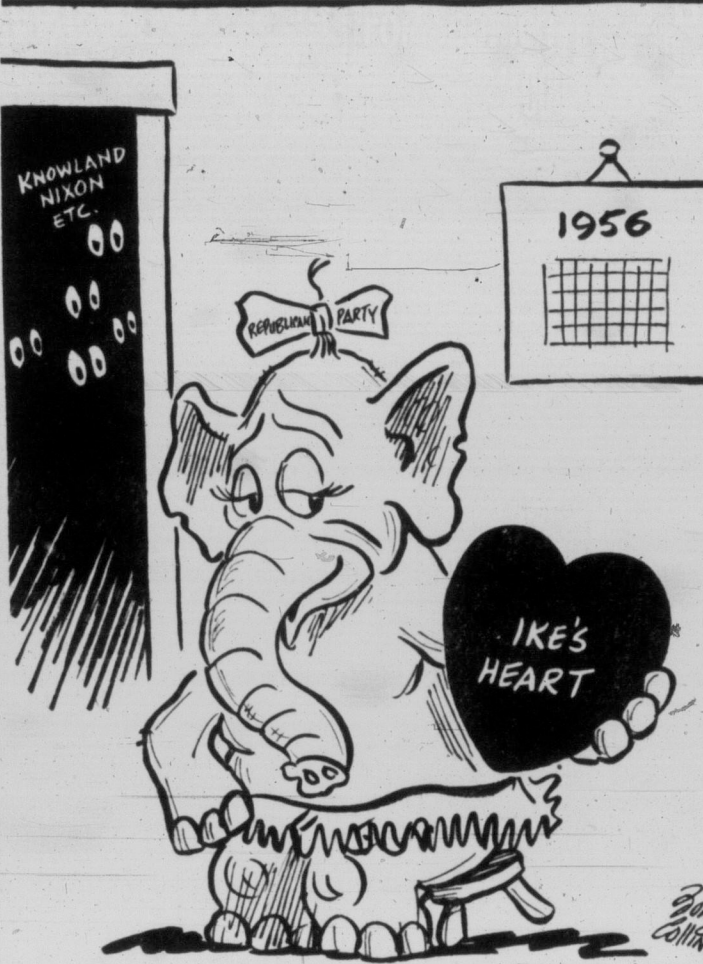

The dispute over the Tweedsmuir Park lakeland and the current controversy over Buttle Lake are cases in point.

In these affairs the parks and recreation branch cannot speak with a strong voice. Its members and experts can make recommendations, but these must make their way up through the Forest Service to the minister and, at best, have only the strength of recommendations.

What seems to be needed at this time is a Parks Act which would give the branch more independence, remove it from the forest service control in order to avoid natural conflict, and provide for immediate association with allied agencies. These include fish and game and tourist agencies, all of which do inter-related work.

Perhaps a special minister is a matter for future consideration. What should be devised now is a means of giving the parks and recreation branch greater authority.

'Will He Be My Valentine?'

The Case of Miss Lucy

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

AS of now at the University of Alabama the situation appears to be this: Because the state government of Alabama has failed to maintain law and order on the campus of the state university, the authorities of the university have felt compelled to yield to the violence of a mob. This has raised an issue within the state of Alabama as to whether a great question of public policy is to be decided because a governor instead of coming to the support of the local police, has stood aside and let a mob have its way.

Dr. Carmichael, the president of the university, was in the act of complying faithfully with the order of the court that Miss Lucy be allowed to attend classes. There is no evidence that the university authorities and the faculty were not prepared to comply with the law. There is no evidence that the students who attended the same classes with her were aroused to rebellion.

The mob, consisting of some students and it appears a hard core of outsiders, defied the local peace officers, left unaided by the governor, and succeeded in terrorizing the university authorities into denying Miss Lucy her undoubted constitutional rights.

SOVEREIGNTY LOST?

What is at stake in this surrender to a mob is whether Alabama is in fact, not merely in name, a sovereign state. For what has happened in Tuscaloosa is a quite different kind of thing from what has happened in any of the other Southern states which are opposing integration in the schools.

Nowhere else has resistance to the decision of the Supreme Court been left to a mob. Nowhere else has the state government connived at mob rule, which is what Governor Folsom did. Whatever one may think of the legal reasoning in Virginia, for example, there and elsewhere the resistance is being carried out under the forms of law.

That makes a difference as between night and day. For it keeps the issue on a level where, though it cannot be settled quickly, it can be treated by the civilized process of accommodation and persuasion. This will not be possible where state governments abandon their authority to mobs, and the question is raised of how far the authority and dignity of the United States are to be flouted.

In Los Angeles at a meeting of Negro voters Governor Stevenson was asked whether as President he would, if necessary, use the Army to enforce integration in the schools. His answer was the only conceivable answer that any responsible public man could make. He would not use the Army.

It is ominous, however, that the question should have been put to him at all.

that such a question should be asked of a man who may well be the President of the United States. It shows how very dangerous, how near to violence, is the situation.

For we cannot afford to doubt that what Governor Folsom has just let happen in Alabama—a surrender to lawless force—is precisely the kind of thing which will incite and provoke a mounting demand for the use of lawful force.

MODERATION NEEDED

A number of politicians have been amusing themselves lately with deriding the notion that moderation could be, especially among Democrats, the sound and true approach to serious conflicts. Well, here in the wake of the Supreme Court decision, they can see in the concrete how there is no decent prospect unless we preserve the spirit of moderation.

They have here what is almost certainly the hardest and most dangerous internal American issue. They insist on absolute segregation, and those Northern politicians who ask for federal coercion to bring about the immediate ending of all segregation.

In the moderate course, which is the one that the court calls for, desegregation is not one action, to be taken simultaneously everywhere. It is a complex process which must vary with the conditions in the differing localities. The same kind and the same rate of integration cannot be applied everywhere—at once, in the Deep South and in the border states.

DIFFICULT POINT

Broadly speaking, it can be said, I suppose, that at the higher levels of education, the professional and graduate schools, integration is most easily put into effect. Integration is most difficult on the other hand, in the schools for teenagers, among high school students and underclassmen, in co-educational institutions for adolescents.

There may well be parts of the South where integration at the teenage level cannot wisely be put into effect for a long time to come. The country will understand the difficulty, and it will be disposed, I believe, to feel that the Southern states are within the spirit of the constitution if, as many of them are already doing, they try to make integration work at the higher educational levels.

That is another reason why the case of Miss Lucy, who wants to go to college to become a librarian, is such a setback to law and to good sense.

SIMPLE TOPICS

"Such doings," says I. Miss Forbes writes about a pup and a little girl, Wallace Reymann writes about their new dog, and the simple truth is we were thrilled with Ruth Enke's column the week she told us about the birth of a calf. And I'm thrilled to think of the number of children who will get acquainted with better books because of Ruth Enke's column.

"Trivialities," the good lady, one of your correspondents, called them the other day. Maybe she will be kind or condescending enough to tell us unenlightened ones what the common denominator of life is.

TRANSFUSION CONFUSION

How passing strange it is, though, though the Bible is the best seller, the great majority of its possessors ignore the Creator's injunctions.

Over 400 years ago the Command was given "Flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat." And surely your blood, the blood of your lives will I require" (Gen. 9).

About 860 years later the Israelites were placed under this prohibition, the penalty for disobedience being death. (Lev. 17.)

In 49 A.D. the same prohibition was placed upon Christians whether Jew or Gentile: "Keep yourselves free from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood." (Acts 15.)

Evidently the greater number of Bible possessors do not take these vital instructions seriously today. Those who do are despised, ridiculed and persecuted.

SAD COMMENTARY

Appropos the editorial in the Victoria Daily Times of Feb. 3, under the caption "The Newspapers."

It is a sad commentary, but we must face the fact, that so few people seem to understand all the parts that go into the making of that one word "freedom"; when one part gives way—as in the dictatorial attitude in one province over the newsprint industry—it is inevitable unless corrected, that the whole Nation will begin to feel the erosion that is taking place in their so-called "free" way of life.

The people, as a whole—but not so the astute politician, lusting for power—have grown very apathetic to the true meaning of the franchise, and think of the vote today mainly as to "what do I get out of it?" The action of the Quebec government, over the newsprint, is like the first ring of the hammer on the auction block, to sell out in due course the "freedom" of both mind and speech to that would-be automaton the State; then who shall dare to ask "who" comprise the cabal that will then be at the controls of the machinery?

Rationing of newsprint is obviously utterly unnecessary, therefore the controlling of the price of same can only mean that in due time the voice of any, and all, opposition to any form of oppression can be duly muffled in the interest of a rising Demogorgan.

COMPARISON AND POTENTIAL

To compare B.C. with Saskatchewan in amounts paid to pensioners without considering relative resources of these provinces is to set too low a standard for B.C. There is only one genuine measure of achievement—that is comparison of results with potential.

Rated with our potential, $5 a month is a pitiful sum. We have a budget of $280 million. We are spending this year $64 million on public works, $27 million more than last year, an increase of 7% in the share of the budget.

The share of Health and Welfare is down 2% from last year. I believe we could and should pay more to our pensioners. We should put humanity before roads.

May I also say that I agree with Mr. Fallas on the importance of our political parties having funds. I also believe it a good thing we should know the sources of these funds—for he who pays the piper has a tendency to call the tune.

Everybody Gets Them Now

BY DOROTHY GARBUTT

SOME anonymous poet once sang of St. Valentine's Day as "A day at the dawn of spring for the fuge avowal of love," and in those lovely words he pretty well expressed the very essence of this day devoted to lovers. Even the birds, or so everyone believed, chose this day for mating and Chaucer refers to it in his Parliament of Fowles, while Shakespeare in The Midsummer Night's Dream says: "St. Valentine is past, begin these birds but to couple now?"

The early Romans chose this day as a Festival of Love in honor of the wolf that suckled those twin babes Romulus and Remus, the founders of Rome. They called it the Lupercalia and today, with our modern connotation of wolf as a gay deceiver, it seems particularly apt. As with the Romans, who never did anything in a halfhearted way, pagan and sank to downright licentiousness. When the early Christian church was getting established it was most difficult for the elders to stamp out such firmly entrenched feast days. So they very wisely took them over, but with their own seal of approval as it were.

For instance, in the Roman feasts one of the favorite customs was for a girl to draw the name of a young man from an urn and he was hers for the day. The Christian fathers dehydrated this idea and had the maiden draw a name from an urn—but it was the name of a saint. And this saint she was to follow as her model in decorum and devotion for the coming year.

ORIGINAL MEANING

There is no record of what the maidens thought of this substitution, but it couldn't have been much.

By 1270, Feb. 14 had reverted pretty much to its original meaning and lovers had it as their own once more. In that year St. Valentine was martyred on Feb. 14 and because his death coincided in such a timely manner with the festival he gradually became the patron saint of lovers, which no doubt would have surprised him very much.

There is another school of thought which has it that the old Norman word for lover was gallant and as the Normans pronounce a G as a V this day for gallantry and dalliance, this lover's day, became known as Gallant's or Valentine's Day. Some credence might be given to this theory when we learn that the Duke of Orleans, a notorious gallant, while imprisoned at Agincourt, wrote the first rhymed valentine on record.

The Farmers Look Askance

B.C. Farmer and Gardener

PREMIER BENNETT has won another by-election in Vancouver Centre . . . but British Columbia has lost Social Credit. The Social Credit movement that we in rural B.C. helped to elect has given way to a well oiled, well greased political machine the like of which we have never seen operating before in this great province of ours.

Six years ago Social Credit appeared on the political scene as the reviving influence that all B.C. had been waiting for. However, today this growing revival has been replaced. During the last by-election campaign the elected members of Social Credit appeared on the election platform with a great assortment of vote-catching promises.

These men were not prepared to win or lose the election on the principles for which Social Credit stands . . . because they have forgotten those principles.

Several weeks ago the provincial government was asked to give some financial aid to the growers, throughout the Fraser Valley, who had been struck a critical blow by the climatic conditions. This help was refused. Within a matter of hours after this refusal this same government spent approximately $8.00 a vote to win a seat that their candidate, Leslie Peterson, could have won on his own ability without outside financial assistance.

It is expected that a provincial general election will be held this summer. If that is so and we have every reason to believe that it is, then we who are so vitally interested in the great agricultural industry of British Columbia should take a moment out right now and analyze the results of the Vancouver Center by-election.

A party member was elected . . . but party principles were forgotten.

A party that claims to have no pork barrel . . . spending more money than all the other political parties combined.

Will the other areas of British Columbia have to wait for a by-election before they too are given government promises to take care of their needs?

Is Vancouver to receive another cabinet minister?

These are only a few of the points that can be raised . . . questions that need to be asked and deserve to be answered.

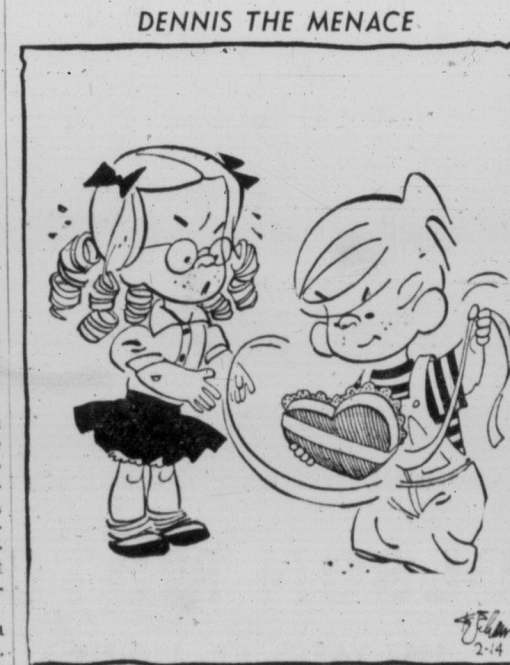

When we elected Social Credit as the Government of British Columbia we did so because we believed that these elected members would provide good, clean, honest government . . . with justice for all and privileges for none. Was our belief justified?

Cigar Smoke by the Bag

LONDON—A minister in Porchester, Nottingham—Rev. Arthur Jordan—has been taking housewife women to task. He says that if most women spent less time fussing about their upholstery being mussed and their polished floors being walked on and more time keeping their relationship with their husbands in good repair, there would be a lot of much happier marriages.

Reyburn

He was writing in a religious journal and he quoted the example of one of his parishioners who would not let her gardening husband into the house without taking his boots off.

"Material things are given us to be of use," he wrote. "Her attitude is fundamentally wrong if she allows them to be tyrannical. People come before things. Things grow in value if we can let others use them to their advantage. Home is a partnership in which each has a share."

I think Mr. Jordan has flung a very well aimed spear on behalf of us men. Heaven spare us from housewife women. One encounters countless examples—from the women who spring a fit if anyone puts a drinking glass down on a table to those who litter their armchairs with bits of crocheted where hands and the back of the head are likely to come in contact with the covers.

But the daddy of them all was a woman I came in contact with recently. (I've avoided her since.) Her husband dearly likes smoking cigars and before their marriage he would light up after dinner and enjoy the sight of the smoke from a good cigar floating in the air before him as he took his ease by the living room fire.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Baldness

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Many men want to know if there is any logical way of avoiding the coming of baldness or if there is any scientific treatment that will bring back hair after it is gone. All my questioners need to do is to look at the top of my head and see that I, personally, do not know of anything that will bring back hair. I imagine there are few physicians who attempt to treat baldness. If one goes to a skin specialist, he is likely to try a few so-called scalp tonics; but I think he does it halfheartedly. One could, of course, go to laymen who advertise that they can grow hair, but after reading the very unfavorable reports of Better Business Bureaus about some of these men, I would certainly not recommend anyone to go to them. Because most persons want to keep doing something, they can rub in ointments and "hair tonics."

Dr. Alvarez

When, in my thirties, I began to lose my hair fairly rapidly, I went to a number of skin specialists and asked them what to do. They all gave me the same ointment, consisting of 10 per cent sulphur and 1 per cent salicylic acid. For years I rubbed it into my scalp every night, but I don't know that it delayed the coming of baldness.

If anyone will look about him at fathers and sons, in many a case he will notice that a tendency to the loss of hair runs in certain families. I think right now of a friend who early got a shiny bald head. He has two brothers and an uncle with shiny bald heads, and by the time he was 35, his son had a shiny bald head. In other families the scalp retains some fuzzy hair, and this type of baldness may appear in generation after generation.

NO SURE DANDRUFF CURE

It may be that, in some cases, the baldness is due to dandruff, but no one seems to know what dandruff is due to or what can be done to cure it. It may help to keep the scalp clean with frequent washings with tincture of green soap, but I have no scientific evidence to prove this.

It is obvious that baldness has something to do with the sex glands. Women seldom lose much of the hair on their head, and they practically never get bald in the way a man does. Interestingly, eunuchs who, early in life, are castrated do not get bald. Theoretically, then, the taking of large amounts of female hormone might prevent

But not any more. His wife has told him that the cigar smoke gets into the curtains and has her lovely house smelling to high heaven. An ultimatum: no cigar-smoking in the house. Torn between having to break a fond habit of his bachelorhood and keeping peace with his wife, he has evolved a compromise. He smokes his cigar after dinner but, as he does so, he holds in his other hand a blown-up brown paper bag.

With each puff of the cigar he puts the bag to his mouth and exhales into it. This I wouldn't have believed if I hadn't seen it with my own eyes. To me this is the height of (a) houseproudeness in women, and (b) kowtowing to a wife.

I HAD ALWAYS known England to be a place where the renting of things has been developed into a fine art. There seems to be just nothing you can't rent here. For a party you can rent glasses and silverware, and even a butler. If you're going to a "posh do" you can rent everything from your top hat to the studs in your boiled shirt.

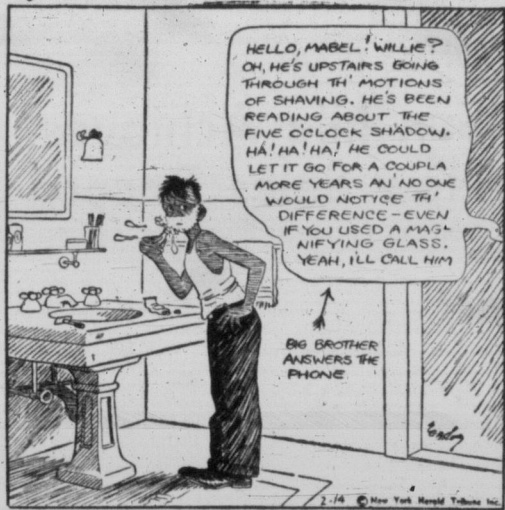

A woman keen to outshine her rivals can rent a mink and a stunning hat for the afternoon. You can rent animals from the zoo for a kid's party. You can turn up at an important appointment in a rented Rolls-Royce—with chauffeur.

But now I've just come across my favorite thing to want to rent—a movie theatre! At a delightful little local cinema—the Baker Street Classic—I saw an announcement flashed on the screen that it is available for outside hours of business.

What a wonderful way to give a party—get a bunch of good shorts and some outstanding feature film and invite all your friends to roll up for a private midnight matinee, with drinks in the lobby whenever they feel like it.

I've decided to do that as soon as my ship comes in. It's fog-bound right now.

Life's Darkest Moment

IN THE HOUSE

with

ART STOTT

Lifetime in Public Office

Nearing his 82nd birthday, Tom Uphill, Fernie's one-man legislative Labor party, claims certain privileges in the House.

The dean of them all—he was elected in 1920, after an unsuccessful bid as a Tory in 1916, and has retained his seat ever since—he is allowed some latitude.

He used it Monday as he engaged in conversation across the floor with Education Minister Ray Williston instead of addressing Mr. Speaker as Mr. Speaker told him to.

As a result Mr. Uphill won a promise from Mr. Williston to look into the school bus situation for the B.C. Montana border community of Rossville, where cancellation of the bus service threatens school attendance.

Tom was thinking deeply of his constituents Monday. Well he might. He leaves at the weekend—his family calls him home earlier—to take part in what may be the biggest party of his kind ever held in the mining settlement on Saturday.

Fernie wants to honor him for public service, which started 43 years ago when he became an alderman and has continued, with Tom as mayor, off and on until his retirement last December.

The Elks are going to make him an honorary life member. The chamber of commerce, board of trade, the miners' union and other organizations have arranged dinner for 400 in the school.

The man who has seen them come and go for a third of a century, is feeling very close to his people.

He still has his quips. He recalls Mr. Bennett's impressive speech against the sales tax when it was introduced and he notes the premier's present advocacy of the tax in its increased form. Which only goes to show, says Mr. Uphill philosophically, that "a wise man can change his opinions, but a fool, never."

Tom still wants sweepstakes, for which the Fernie member won House approval back in 1938. And he's unwilling to think that the members today aren't as intelligent as they were then.

He'd also like to see technicians permitted to make dental plates to save their patients money.

Mr. Uphill is not in a hurry with his speeches. They aren't long, but he allows himself time to shuffle his papers and stop for a while to see if he has covered his points. After all his years as a member, a few minutes here or there don't count.

Lydia Tells Them

The veteran from Fernie followed Victoria's Mrs. Lydia Arsens. The decorative member of the Government's side did her stint at pecking what she calls the premier's "silver studded budget" dreamed her dream of an island highway network with bridges and roads to the Gulf Islands too, hoped there was money in the kitty for Victoria's court house, and made a plea to have Mount Brenton converted into a ski park.

She blames adults for juvenile delinquency, fostered by the corrupt materials in print, on the air and on the screen, wants sex sterilization for suitable first offenders and millions in government expenditure to establish sport and hobby clubs.

Nothing if not discursive, Mrs. Arsens announced most definitely: "There is a cure for cancer."

"Oh, come, come," called back Dr. Larry Giovando. "I repeat," said Lydia, "there is a cure for cancer."

"Then I should go to Easondale," replied the doctor. "That might be a good idea," the lady member replied, before outlining what Dr. Giovando contends is a mass of misinformation for the House. Mrs. Arsens has an answer for that, too. The doctors just haven't caught up yet.

On one of her favorite themes—"We are what we eat"—she offers an interesting syllogism. Too much chemical fertilizer is being used in the ground. What is needed is

Russia Striving After British Lumber Market

MONTREAL (BUP)—Russia is staging an all-out drive to capture the British lumber market from Canada, according to a European spokesman for Canadian lumbermen.

Arthur E. Jones, Canadian Lumbermen's Association representative in London, said here Monday that unless this country's lumbermen watched out they might lose the British market.

Russia was the world's biggest supplier of lumber before the Second World War. It now ranks behind Sweden, Canada and Finland as a supplier to Britain.

Canada's FIRST insurance policy...

...was a fire policy bought by a man with an eye to the future. He realized the importance of protecting his investment against disastrous loss.

Since then, many generations of Canadians have shared this confidence in the fire, automobile and casualty insurance business.

Today in Canada, more than 200 competing companies and thousands of trained agents coast-to-coast, underwrite some 30 types of insurance covering nearly every conceivable risk—from dented automobile fenders to multi-million-dollar disasters. This breadth of insurance protection against financial loss is a key factor in maintaining Canada's economy and prosperity.

B.C. May Augment Fish Probe Grant
B.C. government may augment a B.C. Electric gift of $50,000 for investigation of fish and power on the Fraser River, Attorney-General Bonner said in the Legislature Monday.

"The present grant to the university may have to be augmented by the government," said Mr. Bonner.

The BCE made the grant to UBC for a study of the fish-power riddle of the Fraser, after it announced that a subsidiary, B.C. Engineering Ltd., was surveying a system of low-level power dams on the river.

Move to Save Wild Flowers Under Way

A provincial-wide movement is afoot to have the provincial government pass an act to protect two of British Columbia's most beautiful native flowers.

The move initiated by the Klitz Garden Club of Alberni and supported by garden clubs from all parts of the province, asked for an act to protect the erithronium, Easter lily and the trillium.

The Victoria Horticultural Society and the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society are in favor of such an act.

Dr. David Turner, provincial conservationist, said some 30 clubs in B.C. have requested an act to protect the two flowers.

Horticultural officials said the Easter lily and trillium would soon disappear from native woods if nothing is done to stop people from picking the flowers.

The only two plants protected in British Columbia so far are the flowering dogwood and the wild rhododendron. The latter was once common on some parts of the island but now has completely disappeared.

Hutchison's Book Seen As Jolt to U.S.

Times' editor Bruce Hutchison's "The Struggle for the Border" will be an education for most Americans, reviewer Mason Wade, historian and author, writes in the current issue of the New York Times book review.

He succinctly interprets Mr. Hutchison's subject matter thus: "Today most Canadians are profoundly concerned about Canadian-American relations, while most Americans take them for granted and are very much surprised to learn that Canadians are not too happy about them."

Apart from the fact that in the postwar period and during the Second Great War Canada was drawn out of the British orbit and into the American one by economic and political factors, this Canadian concern largely arises from historic considerations.

Continued the reviewer: "This account will remind Americans of many things they have forgotten, though the Canadians have not, and introduce them to other episodes of North American history of which they have never heard."

The book, said Mr. Wade, should do much to demolish the "great myth" that the Canadian border has never been defended.

Illegal Plumbing Practices Charged

A charge that the Saanich municipal plumbing inspector was permitting illegal plumbing practices was made by a Saanich resident at a council meeting Monday.

George Kelman, 4371 Shelbourne Street, also accused inspector James Mann of "obstructing free enterprise" in denying him a plumbing contractor's licence which would have allowed him to operate in Saanich.

Council ordered an investigation into the charges. Reviewing his case, Mr. Kelman told the council he took his examination for a plumber's certificate of efficiency in December but failed to make the grade.

At the time, he said, the inspector informed him he could carry on as a plumber until he had another opportunity to write his examinations in March. But one month later, he said, Mr. Mann said he could no longer operate in Saanich.

REFUSED He said he then applied for a contractor's licence which would have enabled him to engage a certified plumber to complete his contracts in Saanich. This was also refused, he said. "I would like to know why some people in Victoria with no

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

Commit Yourselves Churchmen Urged

Personal commitment to the life and work of the church is the secret of stewardship, a Vancouver Island gathering of United Church officers was told Monday evening by Reginald Harris of the board of Metropolitan Church.

Discussing the dynamic growth shown by many churches in recent years, Mr. Harris laid stress on "commitment" by church stewards as the greatest single factor in this phenomenon.

"How can a steward ask a church member to tithe, unless he himself is a tither?" Mr. Harris asked.

The pledging of stewards to the individual program being undertaken by a church, and the contagious enthusiasm thus brought to life and communicated to the rest of the membership, was the core of the success of professional church fund raisers, Mr. Harris said, and the same principle must be applied to congregational undertakings launched without professional aid.

The meeting, which took the form of a panel discussion, was the concluding session of an afternoon and evening "school of stewardship" under the chairmanship of Rev. D. R. Pilkey of Esquimalt United Church. The meeting preceded the deliberations of the spring meeting of Victoria presbytery, which opened today in Centennial United Church.

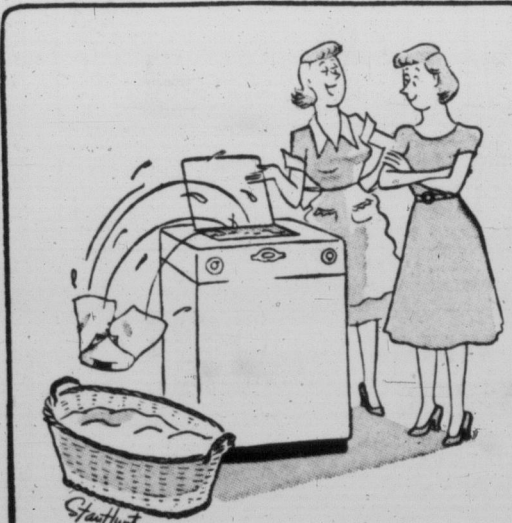

First business of presbytery today was presentation of the

Tobacco Trade Faces Combine Investigation

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA — The restrictive trade practices commission began private hearings in Simcoe, Ont., Monday into allegations that Canadian tobacco growers had entered into practices that might constitute a combine.

T. D. MacDonald, combines commissioner of the Canadian government, has been conducting inquiries and investigations into the operations of the producers and buying companies since 1954. He has made his report to the restrictive trade practices commission.

The commission under the law now conducts private hearings at which the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association will be given the opportunity to answer Mr. MacDonald's report.

ASKS DRIVE ON RATS

Free Earwig Bait Mrs. Arsens' Aim

Free earwig bait should be distributed to all municipalities, according to Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria).

The only woman legislator in the B.C. Legislature also asked for a drive on rats as she took part in the budget speech debate.

"I appeal to the minister of agriculture to distribute free of charge to all municipalities throughout the province an effective earwig bait, in order that this terrible pest can be kept under control."

"Only strict regulations regarding everyone's co-operation in this drive would result in success," said Mrs. Arsens. "People are discouraged from growing vegetables because they can't get the best of the earwigs."

"A drive on rats, too, should be initiated. Too many back alleys are full of them. If Alberta can keep them out, why can't we?" she asked.

ADULTS HIT

Mrs. Arsens took a swing at adults, and their attitude toward juvenile delinquency.

"We, the adults, have sat back too long, indifferent and apathetic about the planned universal corruption of the minds and bodies of our young and old."

Mrs. Arsens said "everywhere about us there are corrupt suggestions, temptations, yet we close our eyes."

"I am referring mainly to the appallingly degrading trash on the news stands, the movies,

Sewer Drainage Into Playfield Draws Protest

Drainage from septic tanks is flooding the Doncaster School playground and endangering the health of some 400 children. Mrs. Gwen Solheim, PTA official, told Saanich council Monday.

Mrs. Solheim asked Saanich to take immediate action to remedy the situation.

She said a 10-inch pipe is bringing drainage into the school grounds where it formed into a large pool. Some of the drainage, she said, came from septic tanks of households in the district.

"This pool is no place for children to play," she said. "One child arrived in school so wet that the principal had to completely undress him."

Council instructed the municipal engineer to investigate the drainage system of the area.

Radio channels across the North Atlantic and from Europe to Asia are expected to be most affected during the hours of darkness.

Jean Weaver and Billy Lint have hearts damaged by rheumatic heart disease . . . but they are filled with hope that research aided by the 1956 Heart Fund will help safeguard other children.

'HELP YOUR HEART'

Heart Foundation Asks for $50,000

Valentine hearts have held the spotlight this week—but a new organization in B.C. is now asking people throughout the province to give a thought to hearts that aren't so happy.

The B.C. Heart Foundation, newest voluntary health organization in the province, is trying to do for heart disease what similar organizations have done for cancer, tuberculosis, polio and arthritis.

It plans to sponsor research and other services in the heart field.

Heart disease afflicts 500,000 persons in Canada and claims an estimated 45,000 lives annually, medical experts on the foundation's executive say. This surpasses the combined toll of the next four leading causes of death.

On a pro rata basis that means nearly 34,000 people are afflicted with heart disease in the numerous research projects under way across Canada and the U.S. including some in B.C. Dr. G. F. Strong, immediate past president of the Canadian Medical Association and president of the Canadian Heart Association and the American College of Physicians, said in Vancouver: "Although heart disease is

Reassessment For Saanich Costs $21,000

The sum of $5,000 was voted Monday night by Saanich council for complete reassessment of land and improvements in the municipality.

Total cost of the program is expected to be about $21,000.

The reassessment is in line with a B.C.-wide adjustment called for under the Assessment Equalization Act passed by the Legislature in 1953.

The reassessment will use the provincial government's new assessment manual as a yardstick.

F. S. Green, Saanich assessor, said it will mean a general increase in assessments, but may not have much bearing on actual taxes.

QUICK START

He said the work must start as soon as possible to be completed in 1957 for inclusion on the 1958 assessment roll.

Mr. Green said two more experienced appraisers will have to be hired, and two tape men as assistants.

"We have to do it," said the assessor, "or the government will do the job and charge us for it."

Reeve Arthur Ash said nobody can say whether taxes will increase as a result of the reassessment.

"However, I'd like the taxpayer to know Saanich is not responsible for the reassessment."

$192,000,000 COST

Bonneville-Built Dam Envisaged by Segur

British Columbia should ask the U.S. Bonneville Power Administration to construct a $192,000,000 earth fill dam at Mica Creek on the Big Bend of the Columbia River.

Vincent Segur (CCF, Revelstoke) said in the Legislature Monday negotiations should be made on the understanding B.C. would receive 50 per cent of power generated downstream, as recommended by the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission.

B.C. Power Commission should negotiate with Bonneville, he said. Mr. Segur said B.C.'s share of downstream benefits could be used to pay the cost of the dam, and that after capital costs had been paid off, it could be returned to the province, "or disposed of by the power commission in the best interests of the people of B.C."

Segur said the dam, and that after capital costs had been paid off, it could be returned to the province, "or disposed of by the power commission in the best interests of the people of B.C."

He said the work must start as soon as possible to be completed in 1957 for inclusion on the 1958 assessment roll.

Mr. Green said two more experienced appraisers will have to be hired, and two tape men as assistants.

"We have to do it," said the assessor, "or the government will do the job and charge us for it."

Reeve Arthur Ash said nobody can say whether taxes will increase as a result of the reassessment.

"However, I'd like the taxpayer to know Saanich is not responsible for the reassessment."

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Tommy Birkenhead likes mathematics, vanilla milkshakes and the Cougars' Bill Davidson. But mostly, Tommy likes playing hockey.

Unless you frequent the Little League and Pony League baseball games, or arise in the cruel hours of the dawn to watch minor hockey league games, you may not know Tommy Birkenhead.

Tommy is 14 years old. He stands 4 feet, 8½ inches high, weighs in at 76 pounds, has red hair and a big grin.

He is intelligent, clean-living, well-mannered and an excellent athlete.

He is the kind of kid you would like to have for a son or a younger brother.

He is the kind of a kid you will help if you peel off a buck and attend Minor Hockey Night at Memorial Arena tonight.

Tommy is just one of the 300 youngsters in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association who will play hockey before breakfast, just to get a chance at ice time. They get the chance through Minor Hockey Night, the sole source of financial support that the GVMHA allows itself. Whatever amount is raised tonight will have to carry the kids through until next year.

Tommy has been playing minor hockey for four years, three of them in the PeeWee League and this present season in the bantam division.

Hockey is his favorite sport although he is a top-flight baseball player. He was a catcher in the Little League but has graduated to the Pony League.

Tommy's Schedule Excludes TV

Tommy likes hockey so much that he goes to bed at 8:30 every night, foregoing his favorite TV programs, after at 5, delivers 90 papers and then scoots up to the Arena for hockey mornings for a one-hour session. Then he puts in a full school day at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

He likes, and is so adept at mathematics, that he hopes some day to be a chartered accountant. He is a straight "B" student. He takes part in all school sports, including soccer, volleyball, basketball, floor hockey ("that's tons of fun"), badminton and table tennis.

He says, of hockey, "I'd like to play hockey in the big leagues when I am a man if I'm good enough. I wouldn't care which team it was for, if I was just good enough but my coach, Pete Holding, tells me I have to learn to pass better."

"My favorite player on the Cougars is Bill Davidson because he always plays hard and isn't always trying to start fights."

"You know what I'd like to do when I am too old to play?" Tommy asks. "I'd like to coach kids' teams. Sometimes I referee some of our bantam games. It's a good way to learn the game. I watch the referees of the Cougar games, too, when I am allowed to go to the Friday games."

We'd like you to hear, from the lips of someone who really knows, just how much playing hockey means to these kids and how worthwhile it is. Listen to Tommy's ideas on the value of minor hockey to a youngster.

"I'm sure glad I have the chance to play hockey 'cause it's the best game there is. You make friends with lots of new kids and learn how to get along with people."

"You learn good sportsmanship, which is not talking back to the referee, playing the game right and learning not to get mad when you lose."

"If kids are playing in sports, they don't have time to get into mischief and be bad. Some kids at our school don't play sports and they are always breaking the rules. They should learn to play hockey."

Well, that's Tommy Birkenhead, just one of 300 kids in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

We thought that, in meeting one of them this way, you might figure a buck is a good investment.

Tommy and his pals hope you do.

Blackmail Charge Made On Dutchmen's Status

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)

—A telegram sent to manager Ernie Goman of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen by manager Jim Hendy of Cleveland Barons about the signing of hockey defenceman Howie Lee was described Monday by Goman as "tantamount to blackmail."

Goman said the telegram was dated 8 p.m. Saturday but he did not receive it until Sunday at 11:30 a.m.

It read: "Howard Lee has joined the Barons, having, as you know, signed a contract months ago. If you believe there is anything to discuss, suggest you give it careful consideration before any statements are issued in view of all circumstances surrounding his original signing and then joining our club."

Goman said Hendy apparently thinks the signing may have some bearing on Dutchies' retaining the bronze medal the team won at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, for taking third place in Olympic hockey.

Goman said he does not know whether Lee was paid for signing a contract with the American Hockey League club last fall.

ALL WERE QUALIFIED

He said Hendy apparently met Lee last Friday when the team arrived in Toronto, accompanied by the club's annual general meeting. The club has a membership of 117.

Vice-president is Andy Anderson, secretary-treasurer is Paul Jones and honorary president is Ray Ritchie.

The board of directors con-sists of Bill Robinson, Art Mid-janes, J. Rose, Dan Thomas, for the 44-pound two-ounce George Heathfield, Bill Rowe, monster he conquered.

There is no question of losing the medal. All our business dealings have been above board."

He said Lee signed a C form with the Barons last fall which provides that Lee must report to the Cleveland training camp next fall. The contract, however, had no effect on Lee remaining with Dutchmen this season.

BETWEEN TIMES

By
MONTE ROBERTS

It is encouraging to note the earwig is at last receiving the prominence it so richly deserves.

For too many years, the earwig has been un-honored and unsung. But yesterday it received the prestige of a few hundred well chosen words delivered in the legislative assembly.

Mind you, I have the feeling the speaker who talked about earwigs yesterday was not necessarily in favor of earwigs. In fact, the way she was talking, she is in grave danger of losing the earwig vote.

I think the lady member from Victoria would be wise to re-examine the situation in the light of the known facts. Earwigs have a long history, dating back to at least 1758. That was the year in which earwig had a brief moment of glory, as a noun meaning whisperer, flatterer, or parasite, as "the earwigs of royalty."

But apparently royalty became tired of earwigs in this connection, and the earwig slipped into comparative obscurity until 1837, when it re-emerged as a verb meaning to pester by private importunities, or to bias by secret communications, or even to insinuate oneself into the confidence of.

In the glorious year of 1839, the earwig found its way into this resounding sentence: "each secretary of state is sure to be earwigged by a knot of sturdy beggars."

Apparently the effort to hold this sentence together was too much for the earwig, and since that time it has almost completely disappeared. As a verb, that is.

As a noun, more usually known as F. auricularia, the earwig is still very much with us, and it needed only the golden oratory of the lady member from Victoria to bring it due publicity.

Now that the earwig is once more in the public gaze, perhaps we can look forward to an answer to the age-old question:

"What bait is best for the earwig?"

Sportsmen for centuries have hotly argued the merits of the dry fly over the worm and bent pin, and the spinning reel as against the trolling outfit, when bailing for earwigs.

If the lady member is successful in having the government supply the bait, we will have an officially approved bait, thus ending the controversy.

In case you have forgotten, the earwig to which we now refer is the European earwig, although it is not clear whether it came here under a government-sponsored plan of immigration.

About the only other thing you need to know about the earwig is, it is gregarious (the encyclopedia says so), which means fond of company.

So if, by chance, there is only one earwig in your garden, you might make it a point of speaking to it occasionally.

I'd hate to think you'd allow an earwig to pine away of sheer loneliness.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

End of 1956 will see more than 430,000 motor vehicles on B.C.'s roads, Attorney-General Robert Bonner predicted Monday.

Mr. Bonner said the number of vehicles on the road in B.C. increased from 317,000 in 1952, to over 405,000 at the end of 1955, and forecast another 25,000 increase this year.

Teacher Wage Bill Up by $191,000

Half-Mill Tax Increase Slated After Arbitration Board Award

Salary increases won by Greater Victoria's 588 school teachers for 1956 will cost taxpayers an extra half mill, or about 8 per cent more than total salaries cost in 1955.

Total school salary budget for this year, considering anticipated additional teachers needed next fall, will amount to $2,700,000, an increase of $191,000 over last year.

The award gained for teachers about half of their request for higher salary schedule, settled last week in arbitration hearings by a three-man board.

School District 61 salaries are now the highest of the three districts on Lower Vancouver Island. Sooke (District 62) and Saanich (District 63) both border on the Greater Victoria district.

Teachers sought a $200 across-the-board wage boost and higher annual increments. They got $100 across-the-board, except in the elementary conditional classification where $50 annual basic increase was granted.

Increased increments, which are dependent upon length of service and experience, ranged from nothing in two brackets to $15 in secondary advanced, the highest classification.

Elementary basic classification, which started at $2,200 last year, is raised to $2,200 this year, with the same $150 increment for the second and third years of experience.

With the fourth year a $135 increment becomes effective, an increase of $5 over last year, making the salary $2,735 instead of last year's $2,650.

Elementary basic maximum is reached after 12 years and the salary is now $3,995, or $145 more than last year's maximum.

In the secondary basic classification, which started at $2,950 in the 1955 schedule, this year's increase makes the salary $3,050. In the fourth year this comes up to $3,540 compared with last year's $3,430.

UP $200

Top salary in this classification is paid after 13 years and will now be $5,250 instead of $5,050 last year.

Highest salary in the new schedule breaks the $6,000-a-year mark with $6,000 for secondary advanced teachers in their 15th year of experience. Last year the high was $5,780 in this classification.

Secondary advanced teachers in their 15th year also get the highest increase over last year of any classification — $280.

Lowest increase is the $50 in elementary conditional classification, which brings teachers just starting, from $2,050 to $2,100 a year.

Charge of driving an auto not equipped with an adequate muffler brought a fine of $15 or three days in jail for Johnny Modiste, Craigflower PO, when he appeared in city police court today.

Charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident brought a fine of $40 or five days in jail for Raymond E. Bowsfield, 656 Kent, when he appeared in Esquimalt police court Monday.

ACCUSED IN WHEEL CHAIR ADMITS BEING VAGRANT

Sentence will be imposed in city police court Monday on William McIntyre, no fixed address, charged with vagrancy.

McIntyre, who changed his plea from not guilty to one of guilty, is confined to a wheel chair.

He was treated at hospital for paralysis for about three months and later went to the Gorge Road Nursing Home for a short time.

A lengthy record of the accused was read in court. It included 13 convictions for false pretences, and convictions for vagrancy, embezzlement, violating U.S. immigration laws and obtaining credit and lodgings by fraud.

March Meeting Planned by Backers Of Voters' Group

Organizers of a proposed voters' association in Victoria said today a public meeting will be held early in March to test community interest.

Hugh Ramsay, former alderman candidate who has so far sparked the move for a civic affairs association, said today: "There has been a continuous response with increasing momentum ever since the idea was first put forward."

Mr. Ramsay recently appealed for interested persons to contact him. He says he has had response from all sections of the city, and an advance organizational meeting is planned for Feb. 28. Plans will be drawn then for the general meeting in March.

Object of the group will be to foster interest in civic affairs, act as a City Hall "watch dog" in the taxpayers' interest, and act as a sounding board for individual ideas for civic betterment.

The organization would also be aimed at keeping citizens advised of their rights to vote, and their right to appeal assessments or zoning changes, give a united voice to minority groups and locate and train future candidates for civic office.

Dark Clouds Over Government --- Turner

Premier Bennett was told Monday it is his responsibility to "remove any dark cloud or suspicion hovering over the B.C. Legislature."

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) said there is grave danger the Legislature will become the object of public derision.

"It is apparent to anyone with half an eye that dark clouds are hovering over this government," Mr. Turner said.

Mr. Turner said "three important departments of the government are involved — the attorney-general's, mines, and highways."

He termed Highways Minister Gagliardi "the travelling, interfering minister of all."

He described an incident he said took place at the end of the Columbia by-election in 1952, when a public works department employee left him suddenly because Mr. Gagliardi was approaching.

"What's the implication?" demanded Mr. Gagliardi across the floor of the House.

"He was afraid of being discriminated against because he was seen talking to a CCFer," answered Mr. Turner.

"Is this man inferring I've intimidated any of my men? I challenge that," said Mr. Gagliardi.

"You put that in your pipe and smoke it," answered Mr. Turner.

The CCF member told the government "to clean out the stables if they are dirty."

Of Mr. Gagliardi's department, he mentioned a number of recent resignations, and said: "I don't know what is going on, but it sure is serious."

"These men don't just leave that way. Something is going on. It has to be rooted out."

He reminded Mr. Gagliardi of his comment on the resignations, when the minister remarked "hogwash."

"If the minister grovels in hogwash, that's his business," said Mr. Turner.

Cemetery Move Bid Dropped

Ald. Edgelow Withdraws Ross Bay Recommendation

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow today withdrew a public works committee recommendation calling for removal of Ross Bay Cemetery to Royal Oak.

The move came after strenuous protests had been registered by Mayor Percy Scurrell, and several aldermen.

The works committee motion was endorsed by Ald. M. H. Mooney and was slated for presentation to council next week.

Plan was to transfer remains of persons buried in the 27-acre Ross Bay Cemetery, then develop the area as a park.

Immediately following the meeting Mayor Scurrell and the balance of council issued statements strongly opposing the move. Several irate citizens phoned Ald. Edgelow at his home.

Here is Ald. Edgelow's statement: "After giving further consideration to my motion regarding Ross Bay Cemetery I would like to state I have withdrawn my motion. I would like to apologize to the people whose feelings have been hurt and further explain to them how the matter arose."

"In discussing a proposed subdivision immediately across from the cemetery, a park was proposed in the area to be developed. This brought to mind that it might be possible at some future date to turn Ross Bay Cemetery into a park."

GET OPINION

"The first step in such a proposal, which was included in my motion, was to approach all people who have relatives buried there and those who own lots or plots not yet used, for their opinion."

"I realize the proposal was premature by 75 or 100 years and regret bringing the matter to attention."

Other members of council were quick to separate themselves from the scheme.

"I can't go along with that ... it's entirely premature," said Mayor Scurrell.

"Absolutely unthinkable," said Ald. Austin Curtis.

"I am unalterably opposed ...," said Ald. Don Smith.

"I don't think people would like it at all," said Ald. Lily Wilson.

Council members, aldermen W. F. Pinfold, Arthur Dowell and Robert Macmillan, are on leave of absence.

Jail Sentence Indicated For Attacker

Colin Bottoms, 3 Erie, was remanded to Friday for sentence when he appeared in city police court today following earlier conviction on two assault charges.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall granted the remand to allow for a probation report to be prepared, on request of defence counsel.

The magistrate said: "A jail sentence is clearly indicated."

Bottoms was convicted Monday on charges of assaulting Kare Gunderson, 406 Simcoe, and Joseph Runowski, 478 Superior, Jan. 19, on Government Street near the post office.

HEAD KICKED

Runowski said he was struck on the head, hit on the nose three or four times, and then kicked on the head and neck as he was lying on the pavement.

He quoted Bottoms as saying: "Now I will show you how Canadians fight."

Gunderson said he also was struck for no apparent reason. The two men were talking in a foreign language while waiting on a street corner for a traffic light to change when the attack occurred, court was told.

Live Programs From Victoria Soon, Says CBC

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor

Television programs originating in Victoria are only a short time away, it was learned today from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Vancouver.

Douglas Nixon, acting CBC director for B.C., said the possibility of live television pick-up from Victoria has been under investigation for some months.

It is the CBC's intention to originate TV programs from the capital city from time to time just as soon as facilities are available, he said.

It has been known by The Times for some time that only technical difficulties prevented the CBC from telecasting such events as the opening of the Legislature. These difficulties, it is understood, now have been overcome.

Further, it was thought by some technicians that a microwave link between the city and CBUT was an impossibility. This, since, has proved to be false and the link soon will be a reality.

BID FOR CBC

Meanwhile, the Victoria chapter of RETA, the Radio Electronics Technicians Association, announced it had forwarded a letter to the CBC asking that a CBC television station be established in Victoria.

RETA's resolution contained the following requests:

1. That the CBC establish and maintain a television studio in Victoria; 2. that the CBC also provide a mobile television unit; 3. that the facilities established in Victoria be linked by microwave to CBUT, Vancouver; 4. that the CBC undertake to produce a proportion of the live television programs seen on CBUT in Victoria.

The resolution was signed by S. B. Spencer, secretary of the Victoria chapter of RETA.

Some local television men think that the city can best be served by the CBC with a local studio managed and directed by local persons. They feel that in this manner viewers will be treated to CBC offerings without interference to U.S. stations received and, at the same time, have the opportunity to present locally-staged programs.

This Year's Casual Wear Reflection of Many Lands

By PENNY SAVER

Everyone likes to get dressed up in finery for special occasions, and even everyday clothes for work have a perky touch to complete the well-dressed effect we all wish to maintain. BUT, comes leisure time, and what I love best of all is to relax in the fascinating casual clothes that the new season is showing in such abundance. Sportswear and loungewear are running parallel in styling, and both tend toward the Italian and the Oriental lines. Combining countries in different parts of our wardrobe can be real fun, and interesting, too. To wear with a typically-Canadian slim skirt for casual wear, or with the Italian slim-jim lounging and sportswear pants, there's a duffel coat from Sweden that is perfect.

It's a three-quarter length coat with cuffless sleeves, so you may wear them long, or turned back for an elbow-length casual. The collar has a tri-cornered styling, trimmed with black. The black is repeated in the trim of the two large patch pockets, which have flaps. The inset shoulder piece across the back is again accented with black. The coat is made of hardy and wearable sailcloth that adapts to any and every spring and summer activity. To accent your favorite outfits, it comes in cherry, royal blue, emerald and tangerine. The price? It's $19.95.

In similar style is the duffel coat with the huge Italian collar, and big white buttons which fasten with twist holders. This coat comes in the same cherry and tangerine, and is also $19.95.

A touch of luxury for your skirt wardrobe would be the top-fashion slim skirts of wool and cashmere that have just arrived in a local store. First thing, I'll tell you the good news not that they're priced at $12.95 not $25 or $35 as you may have thought. They do not have a waistband, but are fitted straight from the waist. Nine large pearlized buttons reach from top to hem, and there are two neatly fitted pockets.

So soft, and so good looking, these skirts come in navy, black, winter white, turquoise, gold, rust and pink plums. Wear them with a blouse and classic belt, or top them with a soft, soft sweater. Either way, you'd get a lot of use from such a skirt.

Where to find them? Call me at 23131, and I'll tell you where to find any of the items mentioned in the column.

Wide Field Covered by Councils

Mrs. E. E. Livesey, retiring president of the Local Council of Women, told members attending the opening session of the 62nd annual meeting this morning in the music room at Victoria Public Library that the scope of women's councils covers a wide field.

"Main objective is to bring together in every centre of population all women's groups working for the welfare of the community," Mrs. Livesey said. "This work covers the whole field of social welfare, public life, national and international affairs and it stands for women's contributions to the community good."

"One of the aims, and one that has been achieved, is that the councils' opinions be made up of the overall opinion of the community."

Treasurer, Mrs. H. John, announced receipts for the year as $284.89 and total disbursements, $292.97.

Mayor Percy B. Scurrah attended the morning session and brought the delegates, representing many women's groups in Greater Victoria, the greetings of the city.

Women's Committee To Art Gallery Hears H. Golby

"Oriental Rugs" was the topic chosen by Humphrey Golby when he addressed a meeting of the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery, recently.

Mr. Golby, who was third speaker in the "Collector's Series," explained the changes in rug-making being forced upon the natives of India by the western world. A uniformity in color and texture, which, in turn, is eliminating native dyes and hand-spun yarns and bringing factory manufacture into practice is being demanded. Yet each rug is knotted by hand. Rugs, old and new, were brought to the gallery by Mr. Golby to illustrate his talk, which was preceded by a movie filmed in India, showing the ancient procedure of rug-making.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy!

Andy, who is a guide, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers. He is the U.S. Children's Encyclopedia. The questions he selects to answer will receive as prizes for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Encyclopedia" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American Peoples Encyclopedia to Neil Anderson, aged 12, of Edmond, Wash., for his question:

How Does a Water Bug Stay on Top of the Water?

A perfect summer's day includes a visit to a pond. There we see a ballet—a water ballet. The performers are, of course, all sorts of water bugs and beetles. The star of the show is the long-legged strider. He can stand on the water. He can dash to and fro on its surface or balance and clean himself from top to toe.

Most people know that water is wet. Also, if you try to stand on it you sink right through it. The long-legged strider refuses to believe this is true. Suppose we could find a genius of a water strider, one who could think and talk. Maybe he could tell us why these plain facts don't hold true for him.

Water he says, has a skin. It is a very thin skin, to be sure. You don't feel it break even as you poke a finger. The genius strider might call this water skin surface tension. The top of any water tries to lie flat. The top layer of water pulls hard to keep the surface level. This tug-of-war is surface tension.

To us, the surface tension of the pond is too slight to notice. But the slender strider reports that it is light enough to support his light, spindly body. And, he says, he has a couple of other tricks, just to make sure. If his feet were like pin-points they might still pierce the skin and let him through the water. So his feet are long, slim and spread apart. And all told, of course, our "genius" weighs less than a feather.

Another trick is possible because water does not like oil or wax. In fact, it hates oily, waxy stuff so much that it actually shrinks away from it. The striders long, slim feet are shod in furry boots. And he keeps these furry boots well waxed and oiled. No moisture from the pond can creep up and water-log his feet. He stays on top, high and very dry.

Let's suppose our genius is a show-off. He will let us study him through a magnifying glass. See the shadow he casts on the sandy floor of the pond? But what big feet he seems to have! Let's turn around the glass and see why. The strider's feet actually make little dents and dimples on the top of the water. He is right about the surface tension. The water's skin bends a little under his waxy fur boots. This slight displacement of water also helps keep the strider on top. And the dimples add to the shadows of his feet on the floor of the pond. There is also a mirror image of our genius on the face of the water right under his body.

To the strider, all this seems very natural and easy. But Andy reports that he, for one, is not giving up his swimming lessons!

Andy sends a copy of The American Peoples Encyclopedia Yearbook to Jim Geer, age 12, of Princeton, Wis., for his question:

What is a tiglon?

The tiglon is the child of a lion and a tiger. His father is a tiger and his mother is a lion. When the father is a lion and the mother a tiger their half-breed child is called a liger. In any case, tiglons and ligers are very rare animals. They are only bred in captivity. And the tiger very rarely breeds in a zoo.

These mixed-up youngsters usually have stripes, though not so plainly marked as the tiger parent. Sometimes, when one grows up, he has a mane in honor of his lion parent.

Urge Fluoridation

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 300 Montreal dentists have sent a petition to Mayor Jean Drapeau calling for the fluoridation of the city's water supply. The petition, drawn up at a meeting of the Association of Dental Surgeons, urges immediate monetary provision be made to install the machinery necessary for fluoridation.

Dental Act Changes Urged by Uphill

Dental technicians should be allowed to deal directly with the public, Tom Uphill, veteran Labor member of the Legislature for Fernie said Monday.

Mr. Uphill recommended that B.C.'s Dentistry Act be brought in line with Alberta laws.

He described prices charged by dentists for dentures as "exorbitant." Dental labs are paid about $30 for a set, and the public is charged $150 by dentists, he said.

CROSS BORDER

Mr. Uphill said many residents of his riding go across the border to get cheaper dentures direct from dental technicians.

The Fernie member also asked the government to solve the problem of the thousands of B.C. residents who cross the U.S. or Alberta borders to escape the 5 per cent sales tax. And he reiterated his annual plea for sweepstakes, as a means of supporting hospitals. Mr. Uphill said present lottery laws are "idiotic" and legalized sweepstakes could thaw the hospital "freeze."

BACK AT HELM—Australian parliamentary Labor party today re-elected Dr. Herbert Evatt to leadership of party. Evatt received 58 votes as against 20 for Allan Duncan Fraser. Arthur Calwell was re-elected deputy leader. All party posts had been declared vacant after December's general election.

Paper Firm Has No Plans To Move—Yet

Sidney Roofing & Paper Co. has made no plans to move to the mainland as yet, company manager J. A. Craig told The Times today.

"For a number of years," he added, "our company has undertaken surveys to determine the possible advantages of relocating our operation and it is true that a mainland location would provide many economies, not the least of which is freight."

"But no decision to move has yet been made. Nor can we say when we might plan such a move should we find it desirable."

Mr. Craig said it was "unfortunate" that reports of a move to the mainland had been circulated in Victoria "during my absence from the city."

EXPANDING

"In the meantime," he added, "we are going ahead with expansion plans for our paper-board operation as was announced some time ago."

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Pat Dunn said today:

"We hope Sidney Roofing will not find it necessary to move to the mainland. Should they ever decide to make such a move we would certainly do anything in our power to enable them to stay in Victoria."

"It would be a blow to the city if they left."

Sidney Roofing, which employs 350 people here, is said to have an annual bill of $600,000 for freight between here and Vancouver.

The company recently announced plans for a $3,000,000 paper mill on the north arm of the Fraser River at Burnaby.

AA—Oscar Class
BB—Worthwhile
Afternoon
A—Don't Miss
B—For a Rainy
C—To Put in Time

(B TO BB) "TARGET ZERO" (Capitol) — Warner Bros. "Target Zero" is a film about the Korea war in general and a small force of GIs and Britops caught behind enemy lines.

"It is war action you want then this is a 'worthwhile' film. Some of the shots, particularly of UN aircraft blasting the Reds, are exciting and well produced. But the story itself is something else again and therefore warrants the low rating."

For one thing this column has grown extremely weary of motion pictures that take great pains to explain to us why we fought the Korea war. "Target Zero" also tries to explain why the U.S. and British fought side by side. What's more, way out in no-man's-land, the war-mired veterans manage to bump into a glamorous blonde niftily attired in skin-tight slacks and a becoming blouse for the occasion. Now we ask you!

WHY DON'T THEY GIVE UP stories of this type? Actually the emoting of the principals and even the lesser characters in "Target Zero" is of tolerably good calibre. Richard Conte is believable as the lieutenant in command who keeps the spirits of his small band in high gear as it fights its way through the Reds to Sullivan's Muscles, a hill where he believes Easy Company is still holding out. Miss Castle in any other type of film might have acquitted herself better. But in this one it was just too much to believe that she could keep her hair-do looking as though she had just received a four-hour treatment from Madame La-Zonga after nursing the wounded, nearly being blown up by land mines and being made boisterous love to by Mr. Conte.

To add to the score against the picture — when the action was at its height who should be heard but what sounded like the entire ensemble of the New York Philharmonic. And that, quite frankly, did it.

WARNER BROS STARTS 'SEIGE' ON C-5 AT 7.30

WEEKEND COMMENT - If the network's switchboard was jammed with telephone calls protesting the language used in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," heaven knows what they were like following Ed Sullivan's program Sunday night.

True, it was only one word, but it made up for all

Coward's words and more. What's more, it was used on a program that caters to the entire family with a special act which Sullivan always reminds his viewers is "for the children."

Sullivan, to judge by his expression, was gutless in the matter. Either he hadn't heard the act in rehearsal or the comedy team hadn't put it in for the "dress." But it is Sullivan's program so Sullivan can take the rap.

One or two of our friends here assure us that the word isn't considered swearing in some U.S. quarters.

This may be true. But it isn't exactly the word one wants their children gaily using in the home, school or neighborhood with the ready excuse for admonishers that they heard it on the Ed Sullivan show. They're quite capable of picking them up without the aid of television.

HOPE YOU SAW Ford Star "Jubilee's The Day

Lincoln Was Shot" on Saturday night. It was a gripping affair with all principals acting their roles well. What pleased us most was the manner in which the story was woven together, moving from the Lincoln, to the cabinet meeting, to the conspirators, to the theatre, and then nicely tying it all together. It was also good to see Jack Lemmon as John Wilkes Booth. Usually associated with comedy roles, he proves under stress that he has the makings of a better-than-average dramatic actor as well.

'Little Admiral' Dies in Bed —After Four Wars, 84 Years

KINOTON, Eng. (Reuters)—Admiral Sir Walter Cowan, who became a Second World War naval commander at the age of 73, died here today. He was 84.

The "little admiral"—he was only five feet two—retired from the Royal Navy in 1931. But when the war broke out, he declared: "I want to die fighting and not in bed."

He joined the army and fought in North Africa. When enemy tanks advanced on his unit, he stood up in the front rank and emptied his revolver at them.

When he was carted off to a prison camp in Italy, the Italian command called him "a most intractable prisoner" and repatriated him to England.

At 73 he made a new combat comeback as a naval commander in the Dalmatian islands. His bravery there won him the Distinguished Service Order.

Cowan won his first DSO during the Nile expedition in 1893. In the Boer War he was an aide to Lord Kitchener and Lord Roberts. He took part in the Battle of Jutland in the First World War.

IOCO CHIEF HERE

Gas Turbine Seen For Tomorrow's Car

The motor car engine of tomorrow probably will be a gas turbine, in the opinion of A. G. Stewart, manager of the Ioco refinery of Imperial Oil in Vancouver.

But, he told The Times, "the gasoline engine as we know it will probably serve the auto industry for some time to come."

Burly, good-humored Mr. Stewart is visiting Victoria for the first time since he took over the Ioco plant last September. He was formerly manager of the Imperial Oil refinery at Winnipeg.

In an interview Mr. Stewart said auto engines in the future are bound to be influenced by developments in the aviation field and for this reason the gas turbine is the most likely successor to the piston engine.

"After that," he grinned, "I expect our cars will be driven by some kind of atomic engine—but there will have to be many modifications first."

(The gas turbine is a jet engine. In aircraft it is a reaction motor, deriving power from the way it thrusts exhaust gases backward. For automotive use it would be greatly reduced in size, and the impeller would be connected to gears and shafts to give positive drive to the wheels.)

In a three-way research project Boeing Aircraft, Kenworth Truck Co., and a truck freight line, all of Seattle, have had a turbine-powered truck on Washington highways for several years.

Mr. Stewart said the present Ioco refinery, opened in 1953, was the result of increasing demands in British Columbia for Imperial products and an assured supply of Canadian crude oil by pipeline across the Rockies. It was the first west coast refinery to process only Canadian crude oil.

The crude comes from Edmonton, in the heart of the Alberta oil fields, by the 712-mile, 24-inch Trans Mountain pipeline. Previously the refinery was dependent on supplies from California transported by tanker, and supplemented during 1952-53 by special rail shipments of Alberta crude at the rate of 5,000 barrels a day.

The fluid catalytic cracking unit at Ioco is claimed to be the most modern of refining units, representing years of research. Because of it, Imperial officials say the refinery is able to get more gasoline from a barrel of crude and produce gasoline of higher octane rating.

Mr. Stewart and other Imperial officials had a meeting with Victoria representatives at the Empress Hotel Monday. They return to the mainland today.

Archie Wants U.S. Referee For Title Bout

LONDON (AP)—"I've got a contract," cried promoter Jack Solomons today when told Archie Moore may refuse to defend his light-heavyweight boxing crown in London next month unless he has an American referee.

Moore's statement, issued Monday night in an interview at San Diego, Calif., has "got me lost for words," Solomons said. Then he added that the contract Moore and his manager signed "says the referee will be appointed by the British Boxing Board of Control."

Moore, who is scheduled to defend his 175-pound crown against Trinidad's Yolande Pompey March 13, said he was alarmed by a recent London fight in which English welterweight Peter Waterman was given a decision over former world champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba. British boxing writers described the verdict as "scandalous."

Funeral Paid First

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Eugene Tull, 85-year-old rancher, went into a mortuary Monday and paid for his funeral. Then, said coroner Ralph M. Simmons, he went outside and killed himself.

A passerby found the body lying in the mortuary driveway, a bullet in the head.

What's news at Inco?

These are pellets of iron ore from Inco's new plant at Copper Cliff. This ore contains over 65% iron and less than 2% silica. This is higher in grade than any iron ore now produced in quantity in North America.

This is the $19 million plant which, with planned enlargements, will eventually produce about 1 million tons of iron ore a year. The present unit will treat 1000 tons of pyrrhotite concentrates daily.

Inco's process for the recovery of iron ore took years of laboratory and pilot plant studies. It opens the way for increased recovery of other elements from the complex Sudbury ores when economically feasible.

This latest major result of Inco's process research is one of a series of planned, long-range developments by which its ore treatment processes are being revolutionized. It is a further step toward one of Inco's primary objectives—the maximum utilization of its ores.

Council Decision Tonight On Beach Protection Plan

BY DICK FREEMAN
SAANICHTON — Placating the ruffled residents of Island View beach currently appears to be the aim of Central Saanich Council.

Disturbed by the relentless inroads of the sea, delegations are persistently pestering the municipality for remedial action. Council will decide tonight whether they will get it or not.

Temper of the latest delegation to the council was eased somewhat when Reeve H. R. Brown said: "We propose to get an estimate of costs and should be in a position to give you a proposition by Tuesday evening."

Councillor Ray Lamont suggested removal of debris and opening up the ditches, adding that a second swing gate was needed. The councillor said the last drainage map had been drawn up as far back as 1936 and no work on it had been attempted since that time.

Argument for clearing the ditches, it developed, was a preliminary to the more important plan for reconstruction of the old seawall wrecked by storms. Coun. Lamont gave expression to the view that the federal government, which built the seawall in the first place, might be disposed to consider in favor of light an assistance plan if it was shown that people was being done by something on the spot.

Letters were read indicating that Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP, had brought the matter to the attention of the government at Ottawa.

Coun. Lamont has long fathered a plan to establish a makeshift breakwater by stringing lines of old car bodies 80 feet apart and letting the sea do the work of embedding them in the sand.

"I certainly wouldn't want those old car wrecks piled in front of my place," said Mrs. M. W. Little, who last year had to be carried to safety in the flooded district.

Reeve Brown pointed out that council had already authorized Coun. Lamont to try out his experiment with old car bodies at the flood gate.

City Tenders Water Offer To Brentwood

Representatives of Brentwood water district met with city public works committee Monday and took home a proposal that they buy water from Victoria at 10 cents per thousand gallons.

The city will take over March 1 a department of transport water service which has serviced Brentwood since war years.

Brentwood had asked the city to turn over its Elk Lake rights and let the rural water board operate the pumping station. The Victoria committee recommended against this and decided to lease the pump station and pipeline to Brentwood and sell the water at the same rates paid by Greater Victoria municipalities.

The Brentwood water officials discussed the proposition and left the meeting without any decision being arrived at.

Forgery Concerns Will of $75,000

Duncan Woman Claims Document Found Following Probate Suit

NANAIMO (CP)—Nine witnesses were heard Monday when a forgery case involving $75,000 will opened in the Spring Assizes before Mr. Justice H. S. Wood.

Charged with forgery of a will and two other legal documents is Mrs. Frances Maud Steele of Duncan. Harry E. Bond of Vancouver told the court his company—Canada Permanent Trust—at one time prepared a will for Charles R. Mau, who was living at Mrs. Steele's old people's home.

Following Mr. Mau's death on Nov. 7, 1954, his company was sued after probate, he said. The complainant was Mrs. Steele.

Probation was stopped after a later-dated will was produced. Crown prosecutor A. G. McCullough said Mr. Mau was a former CPR employee in Vancouver and that his estate was worth $75,000 at the time of his death in King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan. Early in 1954 he wrote the Canada Trust Co. that his estate would be left to relatives in "the Old Country" and friends in Canada. Mrs. Steele later informed the company that she had found a will in a "pair of man's pants," the Crown prosecutor said.

Credit Union in Chemainus Boasts Surplus of $7,559

CHEMAINUS — Continued growth and expansion of the Chemainus and District Credit Union was noted by president George Beaubier in his annual report.

During the past year, the union acquired property of its own "for the present and future operation." The property which is now occupied by the credit union office was purchased, and is valued at $6,890.

Because of the continued growth of the credit union and the added burden of responsibility to the directors, the president recommended that the board of directors be increased from seven to nine members. This recommendation was approved by the annual meeting.

The board was highly gratified with the financial success of the union in 1955.

"We have been able to show a surplus on our operations of $7,559.40," Mr. Beaubier said.

LARGE SURPLUS
The surplus will be turned back to the membership as follows: a dividend of 3½ per cent will be paid on all share capital, amounting to $4,313.62; a patronage refund of 20 per cent will be made on all interest paid by 1955, amounting to $2,776; balance $469 will be held as undivided surplus.

Annual financial statement showed total assets of $232,979, an increase of 30 per cent over 1954. secretary-treasurer Cec Loughton reported.

Assets, total shares and loan services had increased at a fantastic rate during the past year.

"You will need expanded office facilities and a permanent office staff within two years if the growth continues at the same rate," he said.

Elected to the board of directors for three-year terms were W. Laidlaw, G. B. Motherwell

Louis Basanta and Frank Mack. All but Mr. Mack will be facing the master tonight at Central Junior High School in the simultaneous match. (Times Photo.)

CHESS MASTER ARRIVES

It's 'Sammy' Vs. 40 Tonight

By BILL RAYNER

You had to look carefully to find Samuel Reshevsky, U.S. grandmaster and perhaps the best chess player in the world, when he stepped off the Vancouver plane at Patricia Bay Airport this morning.

Enveloped in a voluminous overcoat donned to combat Victoria's "unseasonable" weather, the diminutive master looked more like a commuting book-keeper than the man who defeated world chess champion Mikhail Botvinnik.

"Sammy," as he is called by the chess fraternity, is in Victoria for a simultaneous exhibition match tonight against 40 players. Co-sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Chess Club in the interests of chess, the match will be held at Central Junior High School auditorium beginning at 8.

Reshevsky was more worried about the calibre of Victoria's players than he was about the weather as he rode into the city with Dr. Simon Marinker, president of the Victoria Chess Club.

FANS ON HAND

Marinker had met Reshevsky at the airport along with Times publisher Stuart Keate and a covey of chess fans.

Between snatches of tunes he hummed or whistled, Sammy complained good naturedly about the "very rough time" he had had in his 39-board exhibition in Vancouver Monday night.

"I was surprised at the very strong players they have over there," he said, and smiling, "I hope you people are easy on me tonight." He drew four matches there and lost one.

The Vancouver exhibition was the first of four Canadian appearances Reshevsky will make. From Victoria he will fly to Calgary, then to Winnipeg. He is in his fourth week of a seven-week exhibition tour around North America, a trip he makes once a year.

FIRST SNOW

This, his first trip to Victoria, coincided nicely with the weather, the first snow he had seen since leaving his home near New York.

But apart from a friendly hint that he might have to haul out his rubbers, Reshevsky thought Victoria was "very nice."

He talked about the 72-board exhibition he put on in Los Angeles, which, literally, made Sammy run. It took him six hours to finish, and he only lost two games.

Playing 40 boards isn't quite so bad, but the strain is enough that he makes only one exhibition trip a year. The rest of the time is spent in studying, practicing and playing at his home near New York.

Practicing is the master's advice for young players. While noting that more and more younger players are meeting him in exhibitions, Reshevsky said all they need is practice, more practice, and experience to become strong players.

And perhaps strong enough "to cut him to pieces," as he good humoredly put it, heading for his hotel and a bit of relaxation before taking to the battlefield tonight.

Wed, Fined

St. Valentine's Day proved a busy one for Willie Mays, star outfielder of New York Giants. Mays, 25, was married to Marguerite Wendell, 27, of New York City. Earlier Mays and his bride-to-be were caught speeding down the New Jersey turnpike and Willie was forced to pay a $15 fine before continuing on to his wedding.

SOUTH AFRICA HOUSE APPROVES RACIAL LAW

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Premier Johannes Strijdom's Nationalist party voted down opposition objections in a stormy Parliamentary session today and formally approved introduction of new measures to enforce the policy of racial segregation in South Africa.

The Opposition amendment, moved by United Party leader Jacobus Strauss, was defeated 170 to 65.

The two Houses sitting in joint session then heard first reading of the new laws. They will reduce the voting rights of people of mixed blood—rights they hold under the constitution—and block the Supreme Court from rejecting the legislation as unconstitutional.

Mulligan's Departure 'No Secret', Says Orr

Ex-Chief's Plan to Move to U.S. Widely Known Long Before He Went

VANCOUVER (CP) — There was "no secret" about former Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's plan to leave Canada, Magistrate Oscar Orr said today.

He said Mr. Mulligan's plans were known to "dozens of people" as early as Nov. 14, 1955.

The former chief, expected to be the star witness at the Tupper inquiry into charges of graft and corruption in the Vancouver police department, left the investigation high and dry when his migration to the United States was announced Jan. 21 this year. The inquiry, started last June, ended Jan. 27.

Counsel for the commission were accused of failing in their duty by not ensuring he would be available as a witness.

CAUSED "SOME CONCERN"

"Many people knew he had applied for a visa, because it was causing some concern," said Magistrate Orr, former police commissioner who returned Sunday from a three-month trip to India.

Orr resigned from the police commission prior to his trip in

MLA Expelled By Quebec Liberals

MONTREAL (CP) — Raoul Grothe, member of Quebec's legislative council for Salaberry district, has been expelled from the Liberal party, the provincial Liberal Federation announced today.

The federation said the decision was made at a meeting of the executive in Trois-Rivières last weekend because Mr. Grothe "voted for dictatorial laws which openly contradict the basic principles of the provincial Liberal party and which violate the democratic character of our political institutions."

DUKE DUCKED

Missive Thrown In Queen's Car

IBADAN, Nigeria (UP) — A Nigerian man ran un-molested by police to the side of Queen Elizabeth's royal limousine and pitched a petition into the Duke of Edinburgh's lap today.

"It might have been a bomb," a perspiring British officer of the Nigerian police said later. "We'll have to tighten things up after this."

Thousands of nurses and construction workers were cheering the royal couple as they drove away from the Ibadan College hospital. Suddenly, a small Nigerian broke from the crowd and rushed to the side of the maroon Rolls-Royce. He flung a brown envelope through an open window.

The duke instinctively moved away from the man's raised arm, and the envelope dropped into his lap. The royal car moved on without stopping.

The petition-pitcher turned out to be a disgruntled former employee at the hospital, 39-year-old Michael Tayo. "I was wrongfully dismissed from the hospital last year," Tayo said. "I was head electrician and was told my work was unsatisfactory. I have written three petitions to the Queen but they have not been answered."

New Arctic Blast Due Here Tonight

Today's cool temperatures in Victoria are heading for a low tonight of 18 degrees, according to weatherman William Mackie.

Sanding trucks had most of the city's danger spots covered by the time traffic became heavy, although even the most gentle grades handicapped drivers considerably.

Both Comox and Nanaimo reported a trace of snow during the night, but it did not stay at Comox. Patricia Bay Airport reported one-half inch overnight with a trace on the ground today, and Duncan reported a heavy but short fall that had all but disappeared by press time.

3 INCHES ON MALAHAT

Largest snowfall was on the Malahat, where three inches fell overnight. Although it has been plowed and sanded, portions are still icy and chains are advised.

Truck drivers advised chains for all up-island travel.

Minimum temperature overnight was 26.8 degrees, and it will drop as low as 18 degrees tonight in sheltered areas. Maximum Wednesday will be 35 degrees.

The Dominion Public Weather Office at Victoria reported that the north coast city of Prince Rupert experienced one of its coldest nights in history when the mercury dipped to five above zero. The record low temperature recorded in Prince Rupert in February is one above.

Other overnight low marks included 18 below at Prince George, 13 below at Smithers, 12 below at Quesnel, eight below at Kimberley, eight above at Kamloops, 11 at Sandspit, 15 at Revelstoke, 20 at Penticton and Lytton.

Mayo, Yukon, reported the coldest temperature on the continent with a bone-chilling 53 below zero. Watson Lake, B.C. reported 52 below.

A-G. Intervenes In Divorce Case

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — A divorce petition was adjourned here Monday for further investigation of the allegations, after the attorney-general's department intervened.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes turned down a request by Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, representing the petitioner's lawyer, Ian Sutherland, to have the divorce petition dismissed.

The judge's decision followed a request by F. Craig Munroe, representing the attorney-general, for further inquiry.

The petition had been filed by Stephen J. Fedruk of Lulu Island, B.C., against his wife, Vivian Lorraine, and Charles Curran, named as co-respondent, both of Prince Rupert, B.C.

Mr. Sturdy told the court E. D. Edwards, Vancouver, a detective operator who was investigating the case, signed a statement in his office last month which he quoted as saying:

"They (the respondent and correspondent) admitted to me that they had been living as husband and wife in Prince Rupert and didn't know of anyone who could serve them there without causing a scandal."

"I saw them earlier in the day at the Castle Hotel and they said they would get a room that night."

"They said they had to leave town the next morning and could not wait to be served. I sent the petition to them by mail."

Mr. Sturdy said the petitioner's lawyer, Mr. Sutherland, "had not participated in the perjury."

Mr. Justice McInnes said that "if Mr. Sturdy's statement is correct this is a very serious matter in the administration of justice." He adjourned the hearing to a later date at Vancouver.

Scotland Yard Fires Corrupt Inspector

Vice Squad Officer Aided Prostitute, Withheld Panderer's Record From Court

LONDON (Reuters) — A long inquiry into bribery and corruption among London police closed Monday with the dismissal of Inspector Charles Jacobs, 47, of the vice squad.

Jacobs was the eighth man named last year by Joseph Grech, 32-year-old Maltese jailed for three years for housebreaking, in allegations against British police.

Jacobs at the detective-then took charge of new evidence, combed London's shady Soho quarters, and questioned prostitutes, known panderers and men serving jail terms.

As a result of inquiries three men, including a solicitor and a detective-sergeant in the metropolitan police were jailed for conspiring to pervert justice at Grech's trial. Six men named were cleared. Grech named Jacobs at the detective-sergeant's trial.

Today the former vice-squad leader heard Scotland Yard's police commissioner reject his appeal against the decision of a disciplinary board 12 days ago.

The board found: 1. He had been guilty of assisting a convicted prostitute to obtain premises for the purpose of prostitution.

2. He had failed to disclose in court the previous convictions of a man found guilty of living on immoral earnings.

3. He had failed to account for property he took from a man arrested for living on immoral earnings.

Jacobs has the right of appeal to the home secretary against his dismissal.

He was captured at gunpoint after a street battle with four detectives on Spadina Avenue.

Police said an unloaded pistol was tucked in his pants belt, and a knife was found in a pocket.

Vancouver police have sought Carey since Dec. 7 as a material witness in the slaying of Constable Gordon Sinclair, shot to death while trying to prevent a robbery.

GM Strike Ends After 148 Days; 17,250 Get 25c 'Package' Boost

TORONTO (BUP) — The 148-day General Motors of Canada strike ended at five minutes to midnight Monday with 17,250 GM workers in Ontario getting a 25-cent-an-hour package increase.

The marathon negotiations that dragged on for about 10 months gave the United Auto Workers Union the largest economic package in its history in Canada.

Louis G. Seaton, top negotiator for GM, said production would start immediately on 1956 models at the strike-paralyzed plants in Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor, Ont. However, the union membership has yet to go through the formality of ratifying the new two-and-a-half-year agreement.

The UAW called the strike Sept. 19 to enforce demands for an overall 28-cent-an-hour wage increase and fringe benefits that included a company-paid medical plan. The demands were later modified until the

CHESS MASTER ARRIVES

It's 'Sammy'
Vs. 40 Tonight

By BILL RAYNER

You had to look carefully to find Samuel Reshevsky, U.S. grandmaster and perhaps the best chess player in the world, when he stepped off the Vancouver plane at Patricia Bay Airport this morning.

Enveloped in a voluminous overcoat donned to combat Victoria's "unseasonable" weather, the diminutive master looked more like a commuting book-keeper than the man who defeated world chess champion Mikhail Botvinnik.

"Sammy," as he is called by the chess fraternity, is in Victoria for a simultaneous exhibition match tonight against 40 players. Co-sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Chess Club in the interests of chess, the match will be held at Central Junior High School auditorium beginning at 8.

Reshevsky was more worried about the calibre of Victoria's players than he was about the weather as he rode into the city with Dr. Simon Marinker, president of the Victoria Chess Club.

FANS ON HAND
Marinker had met Reshevsky at the airport along with Times publisher Stuart Keate and a covey of chess fans.

Between snatches of tunes he hummed or whistled, Sammy complained good naturedly about the "very rough time" he had had in his 39-board exhibition in Vancouver Monday night.

"I was surprised at the very strong players they have over there," he said, smiling. "I hope you people are easy on me tonight." He drew four matches there and lost one.

The Vancouver exhibition was the first of four Canadian appearances Reshevsky will make. From Victoria he will fly to Calgary, then to Winnipeg. He is in his fourth week of a seven-week exhibition tour around North America, a trip he makes once a year.

FIRST SNOW
This, his first trip to Victoria, coincided nicely with the weather, the first snow he had seen since leaving his home near New York.

But apart from a friendly hint that he might have to haul out his rubbers, Reshevsky thought Victoria was "very nice."

He talked about the 72-board exhibition he put on in Los Angeles, which, literally, made Sammy run. It took him six hours to finish, and he only lost two games.

Playing 40 boards isn't quite so bad, but the strain is enough that he makes only one exhibition trip a year. The rest of the time is spent in studying, practicing and playing at his home near New York.

Practicing is the master's advice for young players. While noting that more and more younger players are meeting him in exhibitions, Reshevsky said all they need is practice, more practice, and experience to become strong players.

"And perhaps strong enough to cut him to pieces," as he good humoredly put it, heading for his hotel and a bit of relaxation before taking to the battlefield tonight.

SOUTH AFRICA HOUSE
APPROVES RACIAL LAW

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Premier Johannes Strijdom's Nationalist party voted down opposition objections in a stormy Parliamentary session today and formally approved introduction of new measures to enforce the policy of racial segregation in South Africa.

The Opposition amendment, moved by United Party leader Jacobus Strauss, was defeated 170 to 65.

The two Houses sitting in joint session then heard first reading of the new laws. They will reduce the voting rights of people of mixed blood—rights they hold under the constitution—and block the Supreme Court from rejecting the legislation as unconstitutional.

Mulligan's Departure
'No Secret', Says OrrEx-Chief's Plan to Move to U.S.
Widely Known Long Before He Went

VANCOUVER (CP)—There was "no secret" about former Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's plan to leave Canada, Magistrate Oscar Orr said today.

He said Mr. Mulligan's plans were known to "dozens of people" as early as Nov. 14, 1955.

The former chief, expected to be the star witness at the Tupper inquiry into charges of graft and corruption in the Vancouver police department, left the investigation high and dry when his migration to the United States was announced Jan. 21 this year. The inquiry, started last June, ended Jan. 27.

Counsel for the commission were accused of failing in their duty by not ensuring he would be available as a witness.

CAUSED "SOME CONCERN"
"Many people knew he had applied for a visa, because it was causing some concern," said Magistrate Orr, former police commissioner who returned Sunday from a three-month trip to India.

Orr resigned from the police commission prior to his trip in order that a replacement could be appointed. Brig. William Murphy replaced him.

"I left Nov. 14 and I knew about it (Mulligan's plan) then," he continued. "I was told by someone. Certainly there was no secret about it."

Mr. Mulligan left Canada at noon Jan. 20. He now is living as a "landed immigrant" in Los Angeles.

U.S. immigration officials, queried following the announcement at the police inquiry, said no one opposed the former chief's constable's application.

That dragged on for about 10 months gave the United Auto Workers Union the largest economic package in its history in Canada.

Louis G. Seaton, top negotiator for GM, said production would start immediately on 1956 models at the strike-paralyzed plants in Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor, Ont. However, the union membership has yet to go through the formality of ratifying the new two-and-a-half-year agreement.

The UAW called the strike Sept. 19 to enforce demands for an overall 28-cents-an-hour wage increase and fringe benefits that included a company-paid medical plan. The demands were later modified until the Continued on Page 2

Good for 5-10 Years
As President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's physicians told him today he "should be able to carry on an active life" in the presidency "for another five or 10 years."

This was reported at a press conference by Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant on the Eisenhower heart attack case, after White and five other physicians concluded a new examination of the president.

All the doctors concurred in the statement that Eisenhower should be able to carry on in the White House for another five to 10 years.

But White—who served as one of the spokesmen—would not say specifically he recommended that Eisenhower seek re-election.

"The choice is his, not ours," White said.

In the nature of things, the doctors' findings will be a factor in the president's decision—possibly to be announced in about two weeks—whether to seek re-election.

Police Halt
Digging for Girl's Body

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Police today called off digging in what was said by a hypnotized man to be the grave of Mabel Crumback, a Toronto area girl who disappeared six years ago.

Police dug for two hours and found nothing.

They said they are certain Dr. Harold Mason, a Galt, Ont., dentist who hypnotized the man, was sincere in his belief that the girl's remains might be found.

Dr. Mason said he intends to return to the "grave" site in a few days and take with him two subjects who, under hypnosis, will be able to "see" what, if anything, lies under the ground.

Another Galt man, identified only as "Jim," led reporters to the "grave" last Sunday after he said under hypnosis he knew where the girl was buried.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

ALMIGHTY GOD help us to remember that love always wears working clothes, that it is by our fruits we are known. Forgive the laziness, procrastination and self-centeredness which makes our homes and our city something less than they might be. Give us the strength and courage to face life's real work; in our Saviour's name. Amen.
